☞Each member of the County Committee will please notice that he is Chairman of the Vigilance Committee for his election district.

Your earnest attention is directed to the following Act of Assembly, regulating the mode of voting at all elections in the several counties of this Commonwealth:

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in general Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That the qualified voters of the several counties of this Commonwealth, at all the general, township, borough and special elections, are hereby hereafter required to vote by tickets, written or printed, or partly printed and partly written, severally classified, as follows: One ticket shall embrace the names of all Judges of Courts voted for, and to be labelled outside, "Judicary;" one ticket shall embrace the names of all State officers voted for, labelled "State;" one ticked shall embrace the names of all County officers voted for, including office of Senator, member and members of Assembly, if voted for, and be labelled "County;" one ticket shall embrace the names of all Township officers voted for, and be labelled "Township;" one ticket shall embrace the names of all Borough officers voted for, and be labelled "Borough;" and each class shall be deposited in separate ballot-boxes.

ORGANIZE! ORGANIZE!—We implore you, friends, to organize for victory and the redemption of Centre county from Democratic misrule. We can carry the county if you will only determine to do so and work earnestly and energetically to accomplish that desired end. Work, work, organize and work.

PARTY RESPONSIBILITY.

The Republican party is responsible for those measures and acts which it endorses or defends. To hold it accountable for every act of its servents is to condemn a community for every transgression of the law. No code of laws can make men honest; no organization can be entirely free from rascality. Laws can restrain the disorderly and punish dishonesty; organizations can repudiate rascality when found. Beyond this, neither law nor organization can be justly held responsible for the shortcomings of those who are dishonestly inclined. Human judgment is often in error; confidence, apparently well founded, is abused; men who hold good reputation fail; the trusted turn out rascals. This has been so from the foundation of time, and will, in all probibility, continue to the end. The best we can hope for is that bad men, as soon as known, shall be driven from power; that questionable public measures shall be denounced; that good men shall be selected to right the wrong done; and that a sharp watch be kept upon those who are for the time being called to represent and protect the people's interests. The purest individual that ever lived has made mistakes; has reposed confidence in unworthy men. To expect otherwise is to look for perfection in human nature. The best party that can be organized by the wisdom, intelligence, and patriotism of the nation will at times be led into the support of men who will prove unworthy of public confidence. To endorse the acts of these men would be to transfer their iniquity to the party itself; to promptly repudiate them is to elevate the party above reproach or censure. We should draw a broad line between the bad faith of a servant and the good intentions of his master. The Republican party has had its faithless servants, but in no case has it attempted to shield them from the punishment they earned. As soon as discovered the party has repudiated them, and entered before the people its earnest protest against their acts. The record of every Republican State convention gives evidence of a sterling morality among the masses of the people. Never in its history has its standard of public integrity stood as high as it does to-day. It demands honest men for public positions and is determined to have them. No measure, no act, no character can hope to be whitewashed by the Republican party. Both man and measure must stand upon their merits. If they are just and true, the party will be quick to support and advocate them; if unjust and dishonest, they will be consigned to oblivion. We have faith in a party that stands guard over the actions of its servants; that is ready to repudiate whatever is wrong; that is independent enough to exact from its leaders the highest qualities of personal character and official integrity. The Republic can never be in danger when so true and loyal a power guides the administration of its affairs.

"TELL IT NOT IN GATH. PUBLISH IT NOT IN THE STREETS OF ASKALON.

We wish that every Massachusetts man in this County might read the mean cowardly attack of the Watchman upon Massachusetts and Massachusetts men. The Watchman together with every low lived blackgaurd in the county, New York and Brooklyn thieves, the Texas democracy with its opposition to free schools and northern enterprise and the great unwashed multitude of shysters, thieves and ruffians, hate Massachusetts and the yankees with a hatred as deep and bitter as the hatred which satan is supposed to bear to virtue. We know the Watchman has always pandered to the worst passions of men, that it has sought to corrupt virtue by publishing dirty innuendoes, that during the war it was one of the worst of rebel sheets, and that it does not now nor ever has seen any good in anything that was really good. It has more influence to day in spreading broadcast the seeds of corruption and immorality than all the Churches in Centre County have the power to counteract. Is this the reason why it hates so bitterly Massachusetts and the Yankees? Is this the reason why it boils all over with wrath at the defeat of Buttler? Let the corruptionist of high and low degree look sad, let good men of both parties rejoice—Benjamin F. Butler, the prince of the back-pay thieves, the man who had only appologies to offer for the Credit Mobillier swindlers, and who favored the repudiation of our national debt, and Peter Gray Meek, the man who made laws against the interests of the laboring men of Centre, who advocated legislative back pay and was the author of the "Chambers" letters, are defeated. These birds of a feather have gone up "Salt river" together. Let all the people be glad for the time is near at hand.

"When Reason's voice,
Loud as the voice of Nature, shall have waked
The nations; and mankind perceive that vice
Is discord, war, and misery; that virtue
Is peace, and happiness, and harmony;
When man's maturer nature shall disdain
The playthings of its childhood.
Then falsehood's trade
Shall be as hateful and unprofitable
As that of truth is now."

THIRD PARTIES.

There are certain politicans, in our own party as well as in that of the Opposition, who are satisfied, as long as they hold fat offices and grow rich from the pickings of the public table, tha their respective organization will last until the end of time; but once out of office, with a poor show of getting back, either through election or appointments, and they suddently discover that the party over which they were once so eloquent is too corrupt to hold them longer, and that an absolute necessity exists for the immediate formation of a new party. Of course they have no selfish ends to serve; they neither hold nor want office, but the good of the dear people demands a new party, and they, with partriotic ardor, offer their services in engineering a third party into the field. A new crop of these disinterested patriots springs up after every convention. They start out with the proclamation that old rings and new slates must be smashed. Nothing but a new party can save the country and administer its Government in the interests of the dear people. But the people are slow to accept their views. The hungry appearance of these disinterested prophets awaken suspicions that a new party is needed more for the purpose of keeping them from starvation then for the purpose of saving the country from destruction. The dear people have a singular way of judging things. They are very apt to conclude that the party that was good enough when these fellows were in office, ought to be a trifle better when they were out; so they turn a cold shoulder on these third party makers, and leave them to go it alone. To hear these disappointed office-seekers talk, you would be led to believe, that when they withdrew their spinal cord from the public service, the back bone of the party was broken. During the late Presidential campaign they actually created a panic, and some good Republicans thought the Greeley tidal wave was sure to swsep the party from existence. But the terrible wave turned out to be a mere ripple, and the army of Republicans who had joined the third party could hardly muster on the 5th of November a corporal's guard. The fate of the Liberal Reform party will be the fate of all parties called into existence by sore-headed politicians and disappointed office-seekers. The people are not bind. They can see for themselves when a party had outlived its usefulness. They have no confidence in politicians who believe in a party to-day because it gives them office, and denounces it to-morrow because it don't.

It is no use, gentlemem, you had better save your car fate, and settle down to some honest emylo yment. The people are satisfied with the Republican party for the present. When they need a third party to secure a better administration of affairs, they will call it into existence, as they did the Republican party itself. When the movement comes from the people, there will be no mistake as to its origin and necessity. It will come with the roar of the tempest, not the croaking of a frog. But there are no present signs of its coming, nor will they appear as long as our party holds its officials to strict account for their public acts. There is much to be done, and while these third partymakers are spending their money and wasting their time in fruitless efforts to create a new party, the grand old party of progress will pursue the even tenor of its way, and establish itself deeper in the affections of the people with each year of its administration.

THE defeat of Ben. Butler in Massachusetts will lift a heavy load off the minds of many Republicans who were apprehensive of his success. There were very many, we know, who were attached by his boldness, dash and pluck, and were led by this admiration into hoping that he would be nominated; but the thoughtful men, who were not misled by the glitter of the tinsel with which he is bedizened, dreaded such a result, as involving serious and fatal consequence to the Republican party and the good sense of the Massachusetts Republicans has saved them from a deep mortification.

We conceive Butler's ability, shrewdness and plausibility; but we have never once been able to conceal from ourselves, during the long struggle over this Massachusetts nomination, that every enemy of Republican principles, every Democrat, every Liberal Republican, and every one of the sorehcaded men who are constantly on the look-out for grievances, were friendly to and anxious for Butler's nomination; and as it is always safe not to do what your enemies want you to do, the Republicans of the Bay State have acted wisely in disappointing the wishes of those who would have gloated over Butler's nomination as a reproach to the party.

Butler's bold and open defeat of the back-pay legislation doubtless contributed largely to his defeat. He deserves credit for his candor; but no party could afford to nominate him, after he put himself on that ground. His paternity of that measure was alike his fault and his misfortune, and he has reaped the natural consequence of that mistaken act.—Pittsburg Commercial.

THE Commissioners of this county have, in the past year, invested largely in printing material; but that is not the worst of it, they have very little to show for the money they have spent, which belonged to the county. But then it serves their purpose, for they now have an organ which is bound to 'print whatever they desire to have printed, and to advertise whatever they may want to advertise.'—(See article of agreement made between C. T. Alexander, Wm. Furey and W. W. Brown.) Last spring they printed the Registry Act, which is entirely unnecessary and cost the county unnecessarily, upwards of $600 They are again doing the same thing now, which will be, this year, an entirely useless expenditure of about $2,000.—Are the tax-payers going to submit to this? Are they going to humbly submit, year after year, to be robbed by this one method, of $2,000 yearly?—If you give the minority a representation on the board of Commissioners, all such irregularities will be stopped and honesty in the administration of our county affairs assured.

False Figures of Orvis.

We call the attention of our readers to an article on our inside taken from the Pittsburg Commercial being a comparison between the false figures of Orvis in his speech in the House last winter, and the true as compiled from official sources. We wish that every voter in the county might read this comparison between truth and falsehood as here shown, in a manner so clear that "he who runs may read" and understand. We have a great deal of talk about Republicacan supporting Orvis. The "Watchman" and "Commissioners' Organ" have lately been very industriously circulating such a report, which they either beleive to be true or have some purpose of their own to serve by giving publicity of such a rumor. We have as yet been unable to learn anything that will warrant us in coming to a like conclusion. If there are any Republicans thus disaffected, we ask of them, in particular, that they will give the article referred to a careful perusal, and then deside if they can to vote to send a man to the Legislature who will so maliciously mistate facts and endeavor so far as in him lies to deal sledge hammer blows at the Republican party. The time is near at hand when the voters of Contre county must deside between John H. Orvis and Levi A. Miller. The one will represent the lawyers and monied interest, and the other would be the representative of the labor interest, the farmers and mechanics. Let the honest sons of toil of all parties join hands and elect Levi A. Miller who will represent them and their interests faithfully.

——Dr. J. W. Rodgers, will lecture before the Catholic society of this place next Tuesday evening, Sept. 30th, commencing at 8 o'clock; subject "Bismark and the Pope." The proceeds to be given for the benefit of Catholic School. All the friends of the school and society are earnestly invited to encourage this laudable enterprise by their presence.

LETTER FROM WASHINGTON.

[Correspondence of the REPUBLICAN.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 20, 1873.

It is impossible to give a very intelligible account of the recent money panic. The excitement here, though intense, does not compare with that raging in New York all day yesterday.

On Thursday morning when the announcement of the suspensions of Jay Cook & Co. and of the First National was made there was a general alarm and no one knew what to think or say. The panic took no definite form, however, during the whole of that day, and no one could form any idea where the heaviest blows would fall. Mr. Knox, the Comptroller of the Currency, took possession of the First National and appointed Mr. Edwin L. Stanton receiver. The greatest anxiety was felt regarding the Savings banks, and the National Savings Bank availed itself of its chartered right to require thirty days notices from its depositors. Of course this effectually checks any run on that institution. Yesterday morning crowds began about the door of the Freedman's Savings Bank and the Washington City Savings Bank, and during the entire day the run continued, each holding out well The officers of both institutions declare their ability to meet any demands that may be made upon them, and it is now believed that by this evening the panic will have subsided. Much, however, depends upon the turn of affairs in New York.

Appeals are coming up to Secretary Richardson from all quarters for aid, and assurance was given yesterday afternoon that action would be taken today to relieve the pressure, but the manner in which this assistance is to be rendered was not indicated. It is supposed that this morning an offer to purchase several millions of bonds will be made at New York, and it is believed that instructions to that effect were sent to the Sub-Treasurer last night. This will likely have a good effect, as those banks having government securities will then be able to convert the same into cash. If anything is done in must be done to-day, as, if the present state of affairs continues till Monday, no human being can tell what may next occur.

That there is something rotten in our present financial system will certainly now be apparent to every one. That this panic was coming, surely coming, was evident to observing men months ago, yet, strange to say, nobody dared warn the public of its approach. Your correspondent had occasion in a letter published upwards of two months ago to speak of this matter in connection with the character of our circulating medium and stated at that time that a storm was certainly brewing. This opinion was founded upon the fact that the value of gold and greenbacks were constantly being farther and farther separated. When the price of gold fell two weeks ago to day to 110 and the bull movement ended in inglorious defeat many persons welcomed the event as a sign of returning security. There were others, however, closer observers, who regarded it as a harbinger of evil, as a token that the evil day was near upon us.

The Secretary of the Treasury may afford temporary relief to the banks of the country, but to my mind there is nothing more evident than that it must be but temporary unless more important measures are taken than a mere purchase of bonds. Until we see our way clear to specie payment speculation will run riot and confidence cannot be restored. The trouble in this connection is that no decisive step can be taken in this direction without the authority of Congress, and that body will not meet until upwards of two months hence. What may occur in the meantime no one can know.

Information has been received at the Navy Department of the safe arrival of the Polaris crew at Dundee, Scotland, on board a Scotch whaling vessel. A dispatch has also been received at the State Department from the American Consul at Dundee stating that the survivors are all well, but in a very destitute condition. The Secretary of the Navy has ordered that they be sent home by the first vessel. A further investigation of the manner in which the affairs of the expedition were conducted will be made soon.

I cannot very well close this letter without making some reference to the recent change in the governorship of the District of Columbia. Hon. Henry D. Cooke, brother of Jay Cooke and a member of the defunct banking firm of Jay Cooke & Co., has been at the head of the District government ever since the establishment by act of Congress of a territorial form of government until last Monday when he gave place to his successor, Mr. Alexander R. Shepherd. As the first governor of the District Mr. Cooke has made a very fair executive officer and in the main has given satisfaction. But as much cannot be said of Mr. Shepherd, who has during the same period occupied the position of vice president of the board of public works. As vice president he has virtually been the controlling spirit of this board, and has managed things in about his own way without let or hindrance from any superior officer or from any of his associates on the board. Though the question is being warmly discussed whether or not his action has met with the approval of the majority of the residents of the District. I think there can be no doubt that he has made himself one of the most unpopular men I ever heard of, and all on account of his official management of affairs. Yet experience teaches us that the chances are a hundred to one that any man who is placed in charge of public improvements will make himself unpopular with the large majority, and we cannot expect an exception in this case. The local papers, with but a single exception, endorse the conduct of the board and claim that by far the larger number of citizens also approve it. They claim that his appointment to the governorship meets with popular approval. For all that, however, I am strongly inclined to the opposite belief. I do not think I have ever met with a disinterested citizen of this District who favors the elevation of Shepherd to the office of chief executive.

The charges of corruption have been repeated again and again until the entire country is familiar with them. Shepherd is the object at which all the charges are hurled. It is but justice to the man to state that these charges are not proven, and it is very evident that President Grant does not believe them true. His choice of Shepherd to the office of governor shows that he intended that act as an endorsement of his administration of affairs. The President himself has had some experience in this line. No man was ever worse maligned than he, but the people gave him their most emphatic endorsment by re-electing him to the highest office in their gift. He is but doing a like act in elevating Mr. Shepherd to the highest office in the local government here. I would like to hope that the President is not mistaken as to the facts, for, though I know of no positive evidence of corruption, there is ample proof of very bad management.

There is another phase of this question of vastly more interest to the people of the country at large, and that is as to who is going to pay for the improvements lately made and now in process of completion in this city. One thing is certain the District of Columbia cannot pay for them. The interest on the debt is a heavier burden than the property located here can bear, and to pay the principal would require the absolute confiscation of almost all the private real property. That an attempt will be made to induce the general government to assume and discharge the indebtness we have abundent proof. Mr. Shepherd, the new governor, plainly indicated as much in a speech delivered the other day to a delegation that waited on him. He said he beleived "the great work accomplished by the people of the District would be recognized and appreciated by Congress. He had always held to the idea that when the representatives of the people in Congress assembled saw that the people of the capitol of the country evinced a disposition to help themselves aid would be afforded them in their work."

No doubt Mr. Shepherd is right. No doubt Congress will come to the aid of the District. No doubt annual appropriations will be made until this indebtedness is wiped out. The district can never discharge the debt without this aid. Without such assistance the capitol of the nation is already bankrupt, and our national legislature will never permit such a disgrace.

But if the general government is to pay this expense the people of the country want to know where it will end. The present amount of the debt is somewhere between $17,000,000 and $20,000,000, and the work on the streets still continues without any signs of abatement. There is no doubt as to the fact that the work is adding greatly to the appearance of the city. We will soon have the handsomest city on this side of the Atlantic, even equal to anything in the old world, and all this would be very nice were it not for having to pay for it. Whether the people of the States will like to pay for paving the streets of Washington in order that the carriages of our local aristocrats and their own representatives may roll smoothly and noiselessly along without disturbing the nerves of our great dignitaries is a question that will scarcely admit of more than one answer. The people would probably like to know that the capitol is a handsome city, but they would probably not want to pay more than seventeen millions to purchase this luxury for their officials.

I heartily admire the motive that induced the President to offer the governorship to Mr. Shepherd, yet I cannot but feel that it has been a mistake. It does seem that this extravagant expenditure of public money has gone far enough, though I am quite sure I am altogether influenced by the unproved rumors of corruption and fraud.

Our Story Teller.

HENRI;

OR

THE WEB AND WOOF OF LIFE.

BY WILLIAM G. CAMBRIDGE.

CHAPTER XXIII.—CONTINUED.

I paused, and gazed upon her face; it was like marble in whiteness, and her eyes were fixad upon me as though astounded by the words I had uttered. Their strange expression caused me to reflect upon the import of my language. She seemed to instinctively recoil from me. I was just ready to apologize, when she arose and said;

"Mr. Eaton!"—she had never called me Mr. before—"I would not have believed you could have talked thus to me! I have been deceived in you! Know you that I consider you unworthy of my love!"

Those last words made me angry, and my reply only widened the breach.

"I am equal to Mr. Gray, I think, and I trust I am not inferior to you. I am not surprised, now, that it was so easy a matter for you to reject me!"

"Say no more, or I shall lose all respect for you; and I would not cease to respect one to whom I owe so much. May your better moments teach you the cruel injustice of this!"

The tears were now streaming from her eyes; and, as she was about to leave me, I sprang and caught her hands, and begged her not to go.

"Unhand me!" she said, resolutely; "and do not touch me again!"

"But hear me, Helen, I pray you!"

"I leave you to your own reflections."

As she went up the stairs that led to her chamber, I heard her sob bitterly. Thus left alone, I seated myself upon the sofa where she had sat but a few minutes before, and, burying my head in my hands, gave loose rein to my own dark thoughts. For a time I fancied that Helen was unjust and cruel; but the mist soon melted away from my vision, and I saw how foolish I had been. I was fearful that I had sealed my fate, and that she was forever lost to me. What a mean thing she must think me! I had conducted myself as though I had a right to claim her hand, and I had told her that I was convinced she loved me; but that was not enough,—I must add insult, and cruelly wound one of the most pure and sensitive beings in the world!

"That very hour, when passion, turned to wrath,
Resembled hatred most,
Made my whole soul a chaos;—in that hour
The tempters found me."

I could hardly find it in my heart to justify Helen for saying that she did not consider me worthy of her love; but I felt that, had I been wooing Irene Dinneford, I should have shown more deference, and not have said "You love me,—your heart responds to mine." &c. And yet, considering all the circumstances, my demeanor towards Helen should have been more respectful than towards Irene. But my transgression did not end here; I had shown my littleness by getting jealous and angry, and so had foolishly wounded one whom I knew to cherish the deepest gratitude in her heart towards me for what I had done for her. It is well to confer favors, but low and mean, ay, contemptible, to ever show, by words or actions, in your intercourse with those you have benfited, that you have not forgotten your good deeds, and look for something in return. That moment the benefaction is cancelled; and what was truly a blessing becomes a cankering surse!

What frail beings we are, and how prone to err! Passion bends us before the might of its power, and sways us to and fro as the heavy winds sway the trees of the forest. Under its influence we say and do a thousand things, which a moment after, we would give worlds to recall! The longer I thought of our conversation, the more I condemned myself; and I only found relief by a good, hearty, unmanly cry. I remained in one position until I heard my uncle and aunt drive up to the door, when I sought my bed; but not to sleep, for disappointment and remorse frightened slumber from my pillow. I tossed and tumbled all night long, and was glad when I saw the first approach of day. I arose while it was yet dark, and went out to ramble, I knew not and cared not whither, if I only could get away from my own thoughts.

Unconsciously I wandered to the spot I have before described, where was the rock in the valley at the foot of the hill and the brook and trees forming circles at its base. I had been far beyond it, and came up to it on the opposite side to that approached when going directly from the house. Judge to my surprise to see a female kneeling at the foot of the rock, her head laid in the niche. A nearer view convinced me it was Helen. I listened and found she was weeping bitterly. What should I do now? Turn and fly, or go to her, and seek to dry her tears, and dispel her griefs? I could not leave her there alone; and with a palpitating heart, slowly approached her. I stopped within a few feet of her, for I could go no further. Every sob which fell upon my ear pierced my heart like an arrow. As I looked upon her, my bosom heaved a deep sigh; she heard it, and sprang to her feet, and hastily brushed the tears away.

"Forgive me, Helen," I said "I knew not that you were here."

"It is easily forgiven, then," she answered.

"And cannot you forgive where there is injury, Helen?"

"It was never a difficult thing for me to forgive injuries."

"Then pardon me for the unjustifiable language I made use of to you last night."

"I do, Henri, with all my heart."

"I thank you, Helen; and may God bless you as you deserve! Last night I suffered bitterly; reproaching myself for what I had done, and fearing that I had lost your friendship forever. I will never offend again, Helen; and I beg of you to restore me to the same place in your affections which I once enjoyed."

"I will do so; for I am glad to find that in your better moments you are what you always were. You are not bad nor unfeeling, but hasty and passionate."

"Bless you, my own, sweet sister! I thought your heart had changed; but I find it posesses the same gentle and forgiving spirit of your childhood."

"And I would not have it otherwise Henri; for, if ever I allow myself to harbor revengeful feelings, then I am most unhappy."

"I wish I could forgive as readily as you can."

"If you try, you can."

"It is very hard to forgive, sometimes."

"Very true. But the reason why we cannot, is because we do not wish it. Your words cut me to the heart, last night, and lowered you very much in my estimation; and, had I not wished for a reconciliation, I should not so readily have forgiven you."

"I was angry and jealous, Helen, or t shonld not have spoken as I did. But there is time for atonement. Make my case your own, and then judge what my feelings must have been. I thought you cruel to reject me, and I was fearful that you had given your heart to another There was a mingling in my feelings of disappointed love, jealousy, bitternes and despair."

"Rest assured that I will judge you in the most favorable light. But, Henri, as we are now friends again, permit me to tell you that, if you would live peacefully and happily, you must learn to control your feelings and passions. When you are married, unless you conquer this habit, you may, in a moment of excitement, heap unjustifiable reproaches upon your wife; and, should she possess a delicate, sensitive mind, how her heart would be made to bleed!"

"I will heed your admonitions, fair instructress; and henceforth, when the evil spirit is seeking to bend me to his purpose, I will think of you: and there shall be a magic in the thought, which shall disarm the demon, and send him powerless away."

"Look to Heaven, for God is mighty and mortals are weak."

"But God makes use of erring mortals to accomplish a good work, even His work; and you shall be the good angel, to charm away all evil."

"I am weak, as well as you; but I will aid you all I can, and that will be but little. You must rely upon yourself and trust in God."

"And yet, I would have your aid and sympathy, because I have so much confidence in you. I have felt, for some years, that I was not fitted to stand alone. I know my own nature so well that I fear cruel disappointment."

"The true soul will be brave in all trials. You cannot overcome the faithful."

"But very few, comparatively Helen, can stand firm, when the pitiless storm of misfortune is beating upon them, unless there is some near and dear one to sustain them. You may talk to the old man of the necessity of looking to God for support, when his limbs have become weak, and he is tottering to his grave; and though he trusts ever so much, he will need a human arm to lean upon, or a stout cane which the good God has caused to grow for his use and support, when he has no longer strength sufficient to sustain his decaying body."

"Well, Henri, I believe you are right and I doubt not, that when you need more strength than you have now, you will find the being that is capable of imparting it to you. As for us, let us be like a good brother and sister, and then we can strengthen each other."

"I appreciate your friendship and sisterly love; and I assure you I value them highly. But I can imagine that the time may come when they would be of no worth to me. There have been brothers who have felt very sad to see favorite sisters wholly devoted to others—to see them married. And how should I feel to see you a wife!

But is not the relation of brother and sister too cold for us? And is not friendship, view it as you will, tame and insipid?"

"O, no, Henri! do not say that!—it is a holy relation!"

"I know it, but—"

"Nay, I would not have you undervalue friendship, or sisterly regard. But it is time I had returned. Come, let us go; it is not well for us to tarry fonger."

I mechanically obeyed, somewhat puzzled to understand Helen. More than once she had manifested for me, by her looks, a regard, I thought, stronger than friendship, and but just now the beautiful expression had flitted a moment upon her face. If she cherished no other feeling but friendship, why was this? Surely she cannot be a coquette. My thoughts were broken in upon by Helen's remarking that the weather was delightful.

"Very beautiful," I replied. "But the most beautiful things in nature sometimes jar upon our feelings."

"I pray you cease to indulge in such thoughts. Come, you will mar all our happiness. Let us be as we once were."

"I fear we never shall."

"Be not faithless, but believing."

"O, Helen!"

"Look at the petals of this pretty flower, Henri. How soft they are, and what bright tints! Are they not beautiful? Come,—you don't look at them."

"They are very pretty." I replied.

"Is that all? You ought to talk to your uncle about flowers. He would not call you silly, as he does me."

"Does he call you so?"

"Yes, he does. We go out for a walk and I find a beautiful flower, and carry it to him, and tell him all about it, showing him all the tinted and downy leaves, ann then he will say, 'Well, if you are not a silly girl, to make such a fuss about so insignificant a thing as that! One would suppose you had found a great hunk of gold!'

"And then I tell him that gold is no half so beautiful as my flower; and he will laugh at me, and say that 'where ignorance is bliss, 'tis folly to be wise,' or some such provoking thing."

"Uncle likes to have his joke."

"I know he does, bless him! But he don't like flowers as well as I do."

"There are very few who do."

"That is strange. Why, I loved them when I was a little ragged fright, and gathered dandelions for deacon Webber. I one day saved all the yellow flowers, and tied a spire of grass around them; but when I went home, the deacon threw them in my face, and boxed my eare soundly for so wasting my time."

"The brute!"

"There that evil being is getting possession of you again! I see that you will have to watch and pray, lest ye enter into temptation."

"With you by my side, there would be but little danger of temptation."

"Do you think so? Remember last night."

We had now arrived home, and our conversation now ended,—I was more in love than ever. The reader may think it strange that I should remain after such a decided refusal. Under different circumstances, I should most likely have returned home at once. But I had lived years with Helen, and had been engaged to marry another in a brief period after I had left my uncle's. My aunt had told me confidentially, that Helen appeared greatly distressed when she learned of my engagement; and she doubted not that her subsequent ill-health and low spirits were mainly caused by it; besides, I saw many things which convinced me that I was not wholly indifferent to her. I fancied that her affections had received a severe shock, from which they might in time recover. I believed that, if I had offered myself prior to going to New York, she would at once have accepted me. Had I been true to her, one refusal would have so wounded my pride, that it is doubtful whether I should have ever broached the subject again. I knew that, without her, life would be robbed of all its beauty; with her, I should be happy. I alone must win the priceless treasure, and wear it next my heart.

Another week passed away, and though we were much of the time together, I did not approach the subject that interested me most of all. Not that I had less inclination, but I was fearful of jeopardizing privilages which I now enjoyed. Helen had seemed to forget the past, and unreservedly gave me her affection and esteem. Like happy children, we rambled and chatted gayly together. We read from the some book, sitting under shady trees, or at home in the parlor, where we spent the most of our time, rarely interrupted; for the old folks, so it appeared to me, began to consider us lovers, and thought, like lovers, we should be happiest when left to ourselves. This arrangement suited me, and I hoped it did Helen; Mr. Gray was no longer in town to trouble me. I was present when he gave them goodby, saying he would not be return until anothe spring. I saw him depart with infinite satisfaction. I never believed for a moment that Helen would marry him; and yet with the consistency of a jealous lover, I was all the time fretting myself lest she should.

We were in the parlor one evening, just at dark. The day had been exceedingly hot, and the air oppressive; for the earth was parched with heat. In the afternoon, a cloud had arisen in the west, darkening the heavens' and, amid heavy winds, loud thunder, and fierce lightning, had poured down the waters in torrents, washing the dust from the leaves of the trees, pattering all over the fields, which held up their dusty faces to catch the jewelled drops of water, which made them look so clean and bright again.

When the shower had passed over, the air was clear and bracing, the birds sang gayly, and everything seemed quickened with renewed life. The leaves on the trees, the spires of grass in the fields, vines and shrubbery, glittered, as the setting sun shown upon them, like robes studded with pearls, and sparkled as though hung with millions of jewels.

On such an evening we sat alone. We had noted the happy change which nature had so speedily undergone, like a weary traveller, throwing off dusty, soiled robes, and putting on clean and befitting apparel. We watched the sun as it went down in the clear, blue sky, throwing a golden light over hill and valley, and brightening all the scene with its mellow rays. Spell-bound, we gazed at the myriads of starry eyes that looked out from every tree and bower, and smiled and glistened on the face of ever green field, hill and dale. The king of day was no longer in view; the yellow lustre, which lingered for a time, faded gradually away, and the shadows began to gather around. They stole noiselessly into the room where we sat, darkening the corners, creeping slyly under the sofas, tables, and chairs. Anon they were taking their places under the trees, by the sides of fences and buildings, gathering in vast numbers in yonder woods, and in due time pouring out and besieging, and darkening all the world. Then Venus, that most beautiful of the starry hosts, which millions say "is mine," with her sparkling fingers removed the slight blue veil which covered her face, and looked down upon the earth brightly, smilingly, as beautiful as when she first took her place in the soft blue sky.

"There is my star!" said Helen.

"What if I should claim it as mine?"

"We shall not quarrel, if you do; for it is like God's love,—all can have it."

"How long we have sat without speaking?"

"With no loss of enjoyment, I hope?"

"No,"

"Could we have been as happy, do you think, had we conversed?"

"I do not know."

"There are moments, Henri, when spoken words would diminish, and not add, to our felicity."

"Do you think so?"

"Ay, truly. When the soul drinks in large draughts of the harmony, beauty light and glory of the gods,—when it feasts on life's holiest, most nutritious aliment,—what power have poor spoken words to add to the sum of our spiritual felicity? Methinks that at such a time they are but harsh discords!"

"You are growing eloquent, Helen!"

"It is but the eloquence of truth."

"I do not doubt it; but the number who ever taste of such pure delights is comparatively small."

"I fear that what you say is true; but why is it, when there are so many things in the world to beautify and enrapture the soul?"

"It is because the mind is not sufficiently expanded and elevated; the affections and thoughts are animal, and not spiritual. The low and depraved find enjoyment in the company of the vile and repulsive; they are merry, and at home, where elevated soul would suffer the most cruel agony. The reason of this is obvious; the mind, the heart, the affections, are in harmony with the vice filth and dark depravity by which they are surrounded."

"O, when will man rise above these things, and be pure and spiritual?"

"When truth shall be brought to bear directly upon his heart; when a more perfect social state shall take the place of the discordant, unequal, antagonistic, selfish one, which now exists."

"What do you mean by a more perfect social state?"

"Did you never think of the false and selfish relations which now exist in society?—the continual clashing of interests, ever stirring up enmities betwixt man and man, setting brother against brother and friend against friend; beginning with individuals, and extending from them to neighborhoods, from neighborhoods to towns, from towns to counties, from counties to states, from states to nations? It is like the pebble thrown into the water, forming circle after circle, wider and wider, until they reach the surrounding shore."

"I have often thought of these things; but where is the remedy?"

"In a more perfect social state. It is vain to look for harmony, peace and brotherly love, while these false and conflicting relations exist. Now, every man seeketh his own and not his brother's welfare. The few live in idleness and luxury, the many in weary toil and poverty; and this state of things waxes worse, causing crime, disease, and suffering."

"And can there be a state which will equalize labor, banish poverty and crime, and cause men to live in peace?"

"I do not doubt it; the people should associate together, so that their hours of labor may be diminished, and their interests no longer clash. All should do something, and do that kind of labor for which they are best adapted. Labor should be made attractive, and then there would be no drones. Men are not naturally averse to labor; but it is the circumstances by which they are surrounded, or the unsuitable kind of labor, or over-work, which makes them averse to it."

"Your views are new to me. If there could be a state of society in which every one could be of service to his brother, while serving himself, it would be glorious. Society, then, would be truly divine."

"A divine order of society is the true order of society. How harmonious are all the laws of nature! The myriads of planets and suns which move through the infinity of space are so governed by attraction and repulsion, that there is never a discord,—no clashing, but perfect harmony. The very stars roll to music! Nature, in all her varied aspects, is still harmonious! Poets tell us of her unwriten music; and the thought is beautiful and inspiring, that throughout the great anthem of the universe there is no discord, but delightful harmony running through the whole,—sometimes soft, pathetic, low, beautiful, and enrapturing,—sometimes mournful, sad, plaintive, or loud, wild, and passionate. The crash of thunders, roar of winds and tempest, are as free from discord as sighs of zephors, humming of insects, rustle of leaves, murmuring of brooks, and singing of birds."

"You, too, are growing eloquent."

"I ought to, upon so glorious a subject as this. I have faith to believe that man has not yet reached his true destiny; he will learn, by and by, that any wrong done to one of his fellow-beings affects not only the one who is wronged, but the one who is guilty of the wrong; and it does not stop there, but extends abroad, touching, with its wizard fingers, the fortunes of thousands, and blighting wherever it touches;—the fairest flowers of life, peace, joy, happiness, wither in its presence, while the most noxious weeds, hatred, envy, jealousy, grow and flourish greatly."

"It is truly so, I doubt not; but man does not understand it as yet. Every one is seeking for earthly treasures; and with many it is a virtue, rather than a vice, to be able to get the best end of the bargain."

"Honesty is said to be the best policy; but very few really believe the proverb to be true,—hence they use any safe means to get rich. The motto is, 'Put money in your purse;'—honestly, if you can; if not, dishonestly."

"And every dishonest act, you think, brings with it a train of evils?"

"It must be so. No one can do wrong without feeling the effect in his own life, or without its having an effect upon his own life; and the evil, and the effect of it, may run through the world."

"But do not good deeds also affect the world and live on forever?"

"Yes thank heaven! and they are more potent than deeds of evil; and this should encourage us to persevere, knowing that the right and the true shall ultimately triumph. 'The good shall live forever, but the evil shall die.'"

"I thank you for what you have said, for it is food for thought and reflection. I am always grateful for a new thought, because new thoughts expand the mind and soul."

During our conversation, I had unconsciously wound my arm around Helen's waist, and clasped both of her hands in mine. I saw that my words had favorable impressed her, and that she was regarding me with that beautiful expression which glowed on no countenance but hers. "Now is my time," thought I; "one more trial, and, if she rejects me, it shall be the last. It is the time, the hour for love, and I must succeed!"

We sat some time in silence, she seeming as well pleased with her position as I with mine. At length I addressed her thus:

"Helen, I have been very happy with you to-night; so happy, that the bliss of years seem concentrated into moments. There is but one thing wanting to make my bliss complete."

"O, Henri, don't! We are happy now,—let that suffice."

"It cannot suffice! Promise to be mine, and it is all I ask!"

"It is not right for you to speak of this again so soon! Do not say any more, I pray you!"

While saying this, she withdrew her hands from mine, and revoved my arm from her waist.

"I cannot think it wrong, Helen! You wrong me, and wrong yourself, by repelling me from you!"

I now arose, and walked the floor, greatly excited.

"Be calm, Henri!"

"No, no! I cannot, will not be calm! Say that you are mine, now this moment!—for I cannot wait longer!"

I did not wait for an answer, but caught her in my arms, and folded her vehemently to my breast.

"Henri," she said, "let me go!"

"No, I will not until you promise to become my wife!"

"I command you!"

"And will you not be mine, Helen?"

"No, I cannot."

I now released her, and said, "Helen, this is the last time I shall trouble you. Accept now, for I never will ask you again!"

She remaind silent.

"I give you till to-morrow to consider of it; reflect well, and then decide. Think of the depth of my affections, and that they are all yours! If then you reject me, I take my immediate departure."

"You have my answer now; I cannot change it."

"My determination is fixed, then; I depart early in the morning."

"I would not have you go!"

"But go I shall; so take your choice, either to be mine, or be separated from me."

"You will sometimes write me?"

"No!"

"But you will come and see us again soon?"

"Not for a year."

"A year!"

"Yes, and longer, perhaps."

"You will not forget your friend Helen?"

"I will try to forget her."

"And I will remember you; and, if ever I pray in sincerity and truth, it shall be for your welfare and happiness."

"O, Helen!"

"We may meet again, Henri, when the skies shall be brighter, and the landscapes more beautiful."

"I dare not hope it now, Helen. The future looks all dark."

"It will brighten again."

"Never!"

"Look not on the dark side of life;—the light is more hopeful and beautiful."

"It is all dark for me."

"Peace and light shall come again."

She took my hand, and said, "God bless you!" looked kindly but sadly into my face, whispered "Good-night," and hastened to her room.

After passing a sleepless night, I arose and prepared for my departure, half hoping that Helen might relent. My uncle and aunt were surprised at my sudden resolution to leave them; but, as I told them it was necessary for me to go, said no more about it. Helen still looked sad, but showed no signs of relenting; and I was obliged to bid her good-by with no hope of ever having the right to call her my own. When I was about to start, she ohered me her hand, which I grasped with fervor, scarcely able to restrain myself from again folding her to my heart.

TO BE CONTINUED.

HAINES TWP., Sept. 12, 1873.

MESSRS. EDITORS:—Please allow me a space in the columns of your valuable paper, in order to defend us German farmers against the tongue of "SHON." We do not desire to say anything harsh or personal at present, but if he should desire to continue his abuse towards us we shall be with him, unless he has just cause for so doing.

In the first place, we ask what we have done to cause our names to be thrown broadcast throughout the county, and by one to whom we have all felt kindly towards and supported since he came into our midst—let it be large or small. The following we emphatically deny: that we sell dirty lard for good, and old butter besmeared with new, nor do we sell meat with bugs in, if we know it, to pay our accounts. Should we be indebted to him we can pay him independent of such trade. Nor did we have a meeting to keep down the price of labor, as we always wish to pay as much as our neighbors. It is true we are German farmers. Is that the cause of our trouble with the small man? If so, we are sorry. We have been taught in that German way—to be honest, industrious and kind to one and all, and to attend to our own affairs as we may think most expedient to our own interests, and in our humble and ignorant way are trying so to do.

As for "Hoffman's Dropa," the use thereof, we will allow our neighbors to speak. When our old friend Geo. Miller had license he could speak whether the small man or we used the most "ardent." This we do not deny that we sometimes get upon our knees at prayer meetings and at home around our family circle, (though perhaps not as often as we should), and ask pardon (from Him who rules all things) for our many past sins, and teach us to live in this world of trouble and sorrow unspotted and as Christ-like as within us lie. Can this young man say as much? If he could, perhaps it would be better for him here and hereafter, and I am sure no harm to his little family who look up to him for protection and instruction. If he wishes so to do, by villifying his friends and neighbors, woe be unto him and his posterity. If he can speak no good of his customers he should speak no evil, and if our butter, lard and meat is not good I am sure he is not compeled to buy it. There are other stores as well as his in Haines.

We are sorry to be compeled to spend our time and annoy you, gentlemen, in this manner, and to answer such silly talk, for to say the least of it, it was written in a baby and child-like manner, and for one, too, who has had some experience in type setting, and would be a gentleman with side whiskers. But we are not to be personal. This we do in all kindness, and hope you, Messrs. Editors, will excuse us and give this room in your excellent paper, and we promise to trouble you no more on this score unless the smart young man should attack us again, and then, and then only, will we ask to trouble you; but this we do in order to put the German farmers before the people as they deserve.—Many of us have lived many long years here in peace and quietness until this young man came into our midst, but now we are willing to bury the hatchet, but willing to dig it up again at any time when necessity requires us so to do, and if we are compelled so to do we shall then give the young man's name in full, and may perhaps say some things that will relieve him of being troubled with so much bad hutter, lard and meat and perhaps some cash. If we haye wronged him in any way we are ready and willing to rectify all wrongs and amply pay him for any loss he may have sustained at our hands; but we are under the impression the wrongs are on the other side of the house, of which we at present shall not speak, but hope we may hear no more such slang. The field is now open, and we do not intend to surrender it without at least an effort on our part to protect ourselves, as we are ready to speak and act on the defensive at all times and under all circumstances. If the English portion of the inhabitants do not like us we are sorry as we have given them no offence to our knowledge. If you wish redress through the columns of the REPUBLICAN, we say pitch in. If it must be, we will be with you unto the end, should we live so to do. So mark us down on the other side, and we now most respectfully, &c., bid you adieu for the present and hope you may prosper in this world and be happy in the world to come. But you be careful.

A GERMAN FARMER OF HAINES TWP.

THE GREAT CATTLE SALE.

Prices Paid for Short-Horns on Senator Campbell's Farm—The Purchasers.

UTICA, Friday, Sept. 12, 1873.

The sale of Hon. Samuel Campbell's herd of short-horn cattle, which took place on Wednesday, on his farm, at New-York Mills, about two miles from the city of Utica, attracted a large attendance of the most noted stock-owners and breeders of this continent, England, Scotland, and Canada. Among those present were the brothers Dunn, the famous breeders of Kentuckey and Ohio, Alexander of Kentucky, the officers of the State Agricultural Society; Col. King, of Minnesota; Cassius M Clay and Messrs. Anderson, Hughes, and Robinson, of Kentucky. The English delegation were represented: Lord Skelmersdale, Mr. Halford, Mr. Calthrope, Mr. Richardson, agent for Sir Curtis Lampson; Mr. Berwick, agent for Earl Bective; and Mr. Kellogg, agent for Mr. R. P. Davis, of Gloucestershire; and also Messrs. Cochrane, Christie, and Beattie, of Canada.

The herd of Mr. Campbell has for many years been noted for containing the purest short-horn blood in the world, and the announcement of the sale, therefore, caused much excitement among those on both continents interested in the raising and breeding of cattle, and was sufficient to draw together the large assemblage present at the auction. The scene at the sale was interesting and exciting in the extreme, while the prices obtained and the fame of the purchasers make the event one that will long be remembered in the annals of the field. A raised platform, provided with seats, had been erected for the accommodation of those present, who numbered nearly 1,000, and the cattle were exhibited in front of it as each number was announced by the auctioneer. Business was commenced at 1 o'clock, by the exhibition of the Second Duke of Oneida, a splendid three-year-old bull of the Duchess family. The first bid for him was $10,000 by Lord Skelmersdale, but this was quickly run up to $12,000, at which price he was knocked down to Mr. T. J. Megibben, of Cynthiana, Ky. The next lot was the First Duchess of Oneida. The first bid was $15,000; but this was improved upon until, after spirited bidding, she was sold to Lord Skelmersdale for $40,600. A beautiful yearling, Seventh Duchess of Oneida, was next offered. The bids started at $5,000 and quickly went up to $19,000, at which sum she was sold to Mr. A. J. Alexander, of Kentucky. After her the Tenth Duchess of Geneva came into the ring. The bidding started at $500, ran quickly up to $30,000, and then, by smaller bids, to $35,000, at which she was taken by Lord Bective, through Mr. Berwick. Several fine animals followed at high prices, some to cross the Atlantic. When the Eighth Duchess of Geneva was brought out to be sold the excitement culminated, and the bidding became particularly lively, the competitors getting almost frantic in their efforts to outbid their rivals. She was, however, finally knocked down to Mr. R. P. Davis, of England, for the unprecedented sum of $40,600.

As soon as the excitement attending the sale of the last lot had somewhat subsided, eleven cows of the Duchess family were put up, and sold for $238,000, an average of over $21,700. Of these, six go to England, at a cost of $147,000, and the others will remain in this country.

After the disposal of the Duchess family, the Oxfords were next offered, and after them the bulls, thus bringing to a close this most extraordinary sale, where in all 111 animals were presented and realized a total sum of $481,585.

JUST OUT—THE NEW LIGHT RUNNING
HOWE
Sewing Machine
THE GRANDEST PRODUCTION OF INVENTIVE GENIUS.

The new factory of the Howe Company is nearly completed, and 1000 ARE NOW BEING MANUFACTURED AND SOLD DAILY!
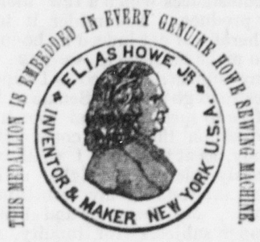
The total number sold last year was 220,000, which far exceeds the sales of any other single machine.



THE ONLY MACHINE MADE ON THOROUGHLY SCIENTIFIC PRINCIPLES.

Combining Strength, Simplicity & Durability with Lightness of Running.

It is superior to all in the following respects:
1st. Simplicity of construction.
2nd. Ease of management.
3d. Lightness of running.
4th. Non-liability to get out of repair.
5th. Durability—it being made of the finest hardened steel.
6th. Perfection of tension on both upper and lower threads, and the ease with which they are controlled by the operator. It makes a perfect Lock Stitch on all kinds of goods and never breaks the thread.
7th. The strength and regularity of the new feed, which enables it to stitch soft or glazed, light, or heavy work equally well, and to cross heavy seams or fells without the slightest difficulty.

The new improved HEMMER,
FELLER, BRAIDER,
QUILTER and GUIDE; Also,

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN
JURUBEBA
BLOOD PURIFIER
Is the most powerful cleanser, strengthener and remover of Glandular Obstructions known to Materia Medica.
It is specially adapted to constitutions "worn down" and debilitated by the warm weather of Spring and Summer, when the blood is not in active circulation, consequently gathering impurities from sluggishness and imperfect action of the secretive organs, and is manifested by Tumors, Eruptions, Blotches, Boils, Pustules, Scrofula, &c., &c.
When weary and languid from overwork, and dullness, drowsiness and inertia take place of energy and vigor the system needs a Tonic to build it up and help the Vital Forces to regain their recuperative power.
In the heat of Summer, frequently the Liver and Spleen do not properly perform their functions; the Uterine and Urinary Organs are inactive, producing weakness of the stomach and intestines and a predisposition to billious derangement.
DR. WELLS'
EXTRACT OF JURUBEBA
is prepared directly from the SOUTH AMERICAN PLANT, and is peculiarly suited to all these difficulties; it will cleanse the VITIATED BLOOD, strengthening the LIFE-GIVING POWERS, and REMOVE ALL OBSTRUCTIONS from IMPAIRED AND ENFEEBLED ORGANS.
It should be freely taken, as Jerubeba is pronounced by medical writers the most efficient PURIFIER, TONIC and DEOBSTRUENT known in the whole range of medicinal plants.

THE PLATFORM.

The Republicans of Pennsylvania, in convention assembled, renew their expressions of confidence in and devotion to the principles of Republicanism, and declare

First. That we heartily endorse and re-adopt the Republican National and State platforms of 1872.

Second. That the National Administration commands our continued confidence and is entitled, by its promotion of the best interests and prosperity of the Nation, to the earnest support of the people.

Third. That the administration of Gov. Hartranft calls for our warmest approbation. During the short time he has been in the Executive Department he has established a State policy which has justly endeared him to the people of this Commonwealth, and has amply justified the confidence we placed in him.

Fourth. That while earnestly in favor of Constitutional Reform, and of such a revision of our State Constitution as will make it an effective instrument in preventing and punishing the corrupt abuses that have crept in under our present system, we demand emphatically and especially, that whatever is done or left undone, the main purpose for which the Constitutional Convention was called, the absolute prevention of special legislation, shall be placed before the people as to secure their separate and positive expression thereon.

Fifth. That the reduction of the State debt from $41,000,000 to $26,000,000, the repeal of all State taxes on real estate, the establishment of schools for the support of soldier's orphans, the maintenance of our excellent and prosperous system of common schools, the establishment of the policy of paying off our debt at the rate of two millions a year, and the generally flourishing condition of our prosperous old Commonwealth, are evidences that the Republicans, during their twelve years control in Pennsylvania, have faithfully administered her affairs and that the reins of government may safely be left in their hands,

Sixth. That there should be rigid economy in the State and National Administrations, and the taxes should be reduced in both as rapidly as consistant with good government, the maintenance of the public credit and certain extinguishment of State and National debts.

Seventh. That the public lands belong to the people, and should be sacredly reserved for homes for actual settlers, and we pronounce against all further grants of these lands to corporations, Eigth. That adequate provision should be made by law for the protection of persons engaged in mining and other hazardous forms of labor.

Ninth. That as retrenchment is required to lighten the burden of taxation and to continue reduction of the public debt, an increase of salaries is unwise, and we condemn without reserve voting for or receiving increased pay for services already rendered, whether in State or nation, and demand that the provisions of the late act of Congress, by which the salaries were increased, should be promptly and unconditionally repealed.

Tenth. That we heartily denounce corruption wherever found, and are sincerely desirous for honesty, economy and political purity in all official administrations. To secure this is the duty of every citizen; and to this end every good man should feel bound not only to participate in politics, but to labor actively to see that none but good men secure party appointments or nominations.

Eleventh. That the practice of loading the appropriation bill, essential to the support of the government, with objectionable legislation in the shape of amendments toward the close of the session is a prolific source of abuse and a fraud upon the people, and its reform is urgently demanded.

Twelfth. That as the country and home industry have uniformly prospered under a tariff so arranged as to afford both revenue and protection, the present tariff should be left undisturbed; and as all tariffs are levied primarily for revenue, it would be a poor government, indeed, which could not afford to arrange its details so as to encourage the growth of home manufactures, and the creation of a remunerative home market for all the products of our soil.

Thirteenth. That order and security in the States lately in rebellion must come through the stern enforcement of the laws enacted to protect life, liberty, and freedom of thought, and cannot be secured by rendering these just and necessary laws inoperative through executive clemency to unrepentant assassins, now undergoing punishment in pursuance of law.

Fourteenth. That as, during the time the Republican party has been in power, it has had to confront graver difficulties and more new and perplexing questions of government, than ever were presented to any other party to solve, and has solved them so judiciously and wisely that the country indorses its decisions and accepts its work, it is the only organization competent to meet the grave issues that are now constantly arising, so as to secure the just rights of the whole people.

Fifteenth. That we sympathize with every movement to secure for agriculture and labor their due influence, interests and rights, and the Republican party will be their ally in every just effort to attain that end.

LOCAL OPTION CONVENTION.

MILESBURG, SEPT. 19.—Convention met at M. E. Church at 2 P. M., and organized by the election of the following officers:

President—Joseph F. Williams, of Huston township; Vice President, Rev. Thos. Barnhart, Philipsburg; Secretaries, Thomas J. Taylor, Unionville, and Wm. Galbraith, of Boggs twp.; Treasures, C. H. Else, Milesburg.

On motion the proceedings of the 7th National Temperance Convention, held at Saratoga, Aug. 26 and 27, were read. Rev. Thomas Barnhart offered the following:

Resolved, that this Convention does hereby endorse, approve and adopt the platform of the Saratoga National Temperance Convention, viz: "That the time has fully arrived to introduce the temperance issue in State and National politics; that we recommend all friends of temperance, to make it hereafter the paramount issue, to co-operate with existing party organizations when such will endorse the Legislative prohibition and nominate a candidate pledged to its support, otherwise to organize and maintain a separate, independent party action in every State, and in each Congressional district in the United States."

After considerable discussion in which Revs. Barnhart, Wiley, Smyser and others participated, the Platform was adopted by a nearly unanimous vote.

Rev. M. L. Smyser offered the following preamble and resolution, which were unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, It is stated in the public prints that certain interrogations have been addressed by the "Open Temperance Union," to the several candidates for Senate and House of Representatives, which action is heartily endorsed by this Convention.

Resolved, That we respectfully request the President of the "Open Temperance Uuion' to communicate to this Convention the replies, if any, which have been received from the nominees, respectively, said replies to be entered on the minutes, without debate, and then returned to the "Open Temperance Union."

On motion, Rev. J. Zeigler, Secretary of the "Open Temperance Union," was requested to furnish the interrogations above referred to, for the information of the Convention, whereupon he read from the minutes of that organization, as follows:

At a meeting of the "Open Temperance Union" of Centre county, held in Milesburg, an Friday evening the 12th inst., the following preamble and resolotion was unanimously adopted, viz:

WHEREAS, Every County of this Senatorial District, consisting of the counties of Centre, Huntingdon, Mifflin and Juniata, gave majorities against license, viz: Centre, 1438; Mifflin, 873; Juniato, 779, and Huntingdon 1170—a total of 4260; and

WHEREAS, There is a movement on foot to repeal the law under which this election was held, commonly called the "Local Option Law," and thus set at defiance the plainly expressed will of the people on this important subject; and

WHEREAS, It is an undoubted right of the people before casting their ballots to be informed of the position on all important questions, of those who aspire to represent them in either branch of the Legislature, therefore

Resolved, That the Chairman and Secretary of this organization be directed to address each candidate for the Senate and House of Representatives, a letter containing a copy of the foregoing preamble and resolution, and a respectful request that he will reply in writing on or before the 18th inst., to the following interrogatories, viz:

1st. Will you, in case of your election to the office for which you are a candidate, vote against and oppose by every honorable means in your power, the repeal of the Act of the 27th of March 1872, generally known as the "Local Option Law," or any amendment or modification thereof, calculated to impair its efficiency and usefulness?

2d. Will you, in case of your election, vote against and oppose by every honorable means in your power, any attempt to repeal or reduce the punishment now prescribed by law for selling intoxicating liquors without license, selling the same on Sunday, or furnishing it by gift, sale or otherwise, to minors, to the insane, to persons infoxicated at the time, or to men of known intemperate habits.

The following communications were then read and entered on the minutes:

BELLEFONTE, Sept. 17th, 1873.

Rev W. O. Wright, Prest., Rev. J. Zeigler Sect. "Open Temperance Union."

GENTS:—Your communication of the 15th inst. on behalf of the "Open Temperance Union," and in pursuance of the resolutions adopted at a meeting of the same held Sept. 12th, 1873, received, contents noted. In reply, will state that I have always deemed it impolitic to make the cause of temperance a political one, and do not consider it an issue in the present campaign. Being the nominee of the Republican Party for the State Senate, I feel bound to be the representative of the entire party, and hence regard it as unwise, and inexpedient to make and special or particular pledge in relation to any special or particular question which involves conflicting interests, and think that any legislator to be efficient, should be free and untrammelled to act at all times in accordance with the will of his constituency. As to the laws referred to in your communication if I be elected and they come before the Legislature for its action, I shall be governed in my action concerning them, as I deem wisest and best, and that will be in accord with the best interests and representation of those whom I serve.

If my past life and record be not a sufficient guarantee of what my course would be on any question relating to the well-being of the District, or the Commonwealth, then no pledge I could make would give any greater assurance or indicate my action as a public servant.

Very Respectfully,

JNO. IRWIN JR.

LEWISTOWN, PA. Sept. 17th, 1873.

Rev. W. O. Wright, Rev. J. Zeigler, Prest, & Sect. of the "Open Temperance Union" of Centre County. Milesburg, Pa.

SIRS:—Your communication of the 13th inst. advising me of the passage of certain resolutions by the "Open Temperance Union" of Centre county, and propounding certain questions as to what shall be my course of action as a Senator in the event of my election is before me. And in reply thereto I have only this to say, through the kindness and partiality of my fellow-Democrats I have been placed in nomination as a candidate for State Senate. Pledges given by candidates before election as past experience has shown, are generally simply traps to catch votes, and are rarely held binding under the changing circumstances which a few months usually produce. I consider it to be right, therefor if not indeed a bounden duty, to make no pledges to any one upon any subject; if elected as I hope to be, I desire to go into the Senate a free man—free to speak, act and vote upon every question that may come before that Body, as at the time I shall conscientiously beleive to be right, and to the best interests of my constituents and State. My character and history are proper subjects for inquiry, and upon these I expect to stand, or fall.

I have the honor gentlemen to remain
Your Obedient Servt.

JOS. S. WARHAM.

To the President and members of the "Open Temperance Union" of Centre County.

Gentlemen:—I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of certain interrogations purporting to emanate from your organization. I have noticed in the newspapers a call for a Convention for the enforcement of the Local Option Act, to be held on the 19th inst. at Milesburg. It seemed a little singular that such a Convention should have been called on the eve of our annual election, and as it was freely spoken of here as having been gotten up by certain Democaatic politicians in the interest of my competitor Mr. Orvis, I gave it a careful examination. Appended to this call I found the name of Prof. Thomas who has for some months been resting in an honored grave; and upon inquiry of other gentlemen whose names appeared there I found that they were used for this purpose without their knowledge or consent. And they freely expressed the opinion that the movement was illtimed, and gotten up by a party well known to us all, for political effect. Further inquiry satisfied me beyond a reasonable doubt, that these interrogatories were framed by Genl. Wm. H. Blair, a violent Democratic partisan, and an intimate friend and supporter of Mr. Orvis. Having commenced the investigation I determined to inquire some what into the record of this eminently virtuous man, and learned that he was a candidate for the Legislature in Centre Co., in 1851, and that he had pleged himself to the Temperance Cause, and that after he was elected he had viclated these pledges, alleging that he had only been in "fun" when he made them. Gentlemen, I have always been a temperate man, but I entirely disapprove of making temperance a party issue, as all past experience has proven that this course has been disastrous to the cause. I am also opposed to pledging candidates as experience proves that the life and record of a man is a better guarantee of fidelity, than any written pledge I have been placed in nomination by the Republican party, and if elected will endeavor faithfully to represent the people of Centre County, and in this as all other questions will be governed by their wishes.

In conclusion gentlemen, permit me to say that the time when these questions are propounded and the accredited mover in this affair fully convince me that you have been deceived by a political trickster. And while I invite your careful scrutiny of my past life and record, you must excuse me if I decline to be catechised by Genl. Blair for the benefit of his special friend Mr. Orvis, in particular, and the Democratic party in general.

With the highest consideration and respect I am very respectfully &c.

LEVI A. MILLER.

BELLEFONTE, PA., Sept, 15, 1873.

Gentlemen:—On my return on saturday the 13th. inst., from attending Court at Lock Haven, I received your communication of the same day, enclosing the Preamble and Resolutions adopted "at a meeting of the Open Temperance Union" of Centre County, held in Milesburg, on Friday evening, the 12th. inst., and also a request that I should answer on or before the 18th, inst., the two Interrogatories which your Association propounds. As I am compelled to leave on this mornings train for Lock Haven where I shall be engaged in Court until after the Eighteenth, I must in order to comply with your request, give a somewhat hurried and brief reply. Intending that my answer shall be intelligible I merely make this apology for the absence of any elaboration. I most heartily concur in your proposition that "it is an undoubted right of the people before casting their ballots to be informed of the position on all important questions of thos who aspire to repeesent them in either Branch of the Legislature." I cannot however, give a categorical answer, to your first question, but will endeavor to make my position sufficiently plain, that no voter need vote for or against me under any misapprehension on that point. The Supreme Court of the State having declared the Act of March 27th, 1872, commonly called the "Local Option Law" to be constitutional, it follows that the elections held last winter and spring under the Provisions of that Act, were constitutional and legal expressions of the will of the people of the several counties and cities of the Commonwealth at the time.

I believe it the imperative duty of every Representative to faithfully represent the will of a majority of his constituents when known, as long as he can conscientiously do so, and whenever he cannot conscientiously do so, to resign his position and permit the majority to elect a representative who can and will carry out the wishes of the people. I have hitherto endeavored to represent the people of this county faithfully and if re-elected shall continue to do so. As long as a majority of the qualified voters of Centre County, shall desire the Local Option Law to remain in force, I, as the Representative of the county, will vote against its repeal, or any such modification of it as would destroy its efficiency. Whenever it is shownby the result of a legal election or by the exercise of the Constitutional right of petition, that a majority of qualified voters of the county, desire that Law to be repealed or modified I shall vote in favor of such repeal, or modification in obedience to the mandates of my constituents. To your second interrogatory, I answer that I am opposed to the sale of intoxicating liquors, without license, and on Sunday, "to furnishing it by gift, sale, or otherwise to minors, to the insane, to persons intoxicated at the time, or to men of known intemperate habits; and being well assured in this regard that I entertain the same opinions held by a very large majority of the people of this County, I shall oppose and legislative action calculated to render inefficient the penalties now provided by the law for these offences,

I remain gentlemen, Yours, &c.
John H. Orvis.

As soon as the reading of the replies was completed, Mr. Blair took the floor and avowed that Mr. Miller's response was correct in one particular. He was present, in a hitherto unquestioned right, at the meeting of the "Open Temperance Union," at which it was unanimously resolved to address inquiries to the candidates, a course which those present humbly imagined they had a right to take, and he had something to do with putting the inquiries into form, after which they were unanimously adopted. He was not aware of having in any way forfeited his right to participate in any public meeting whose object and aim met his approval, and he should continue to do so in the future as in the past.

As to the allegation that he was a "violent partizan" no reply was necessary in an audience like this, and he would make none. As to giving pledges to temperance men in 1851 Mr. Miller is equally unfortunate. That was the year of the exciting Gubernatorial contest between Bigler and Johnson, and no temperance or prohibition question, in any form, was raised or brought forward by anybody that he ever heard of. He was never asked for a pledge on the subject, gave none and violated none.—In the following election (1852), the question was made an issue, and his successor, Dr. Foster, of Philipsburg, was interrogated on the subject. His reply was that the temperance men should agree upon a bill, and however stringent it might be, he would support it, with the understanding that it was to be submitted to a direct vote of the people before going into effect. Mr. Blair said that he gave an active support to Dr. Foster on that issue, though compelled to differ with many earnest and sincere temperance men in the county. Dr. Foster was elected by about the same majority as that which Centre county recently rolled up for "Local Option," his platform being substantially the same as ours, except that it contemplated action by the State at large instead of by counties.

Mr. C. H. Else, in reply to a question, called attention to another blunder in the same letter, in connection with the name of the late Prof. Thomas of Pine Grove Mills, who was never a member of the Executive Committee, but John E. Thomas, of Milesburg, who is alive and quite well.

The following Constitution and By-Laws were then read and adopted unanimously:

We citizens of Centre County, Pennsylvania, in order to enforce the laws of the State concerning the sale of intoxicating liquors, and advance the interest of the cause of Temperance, hereby pledge ourselves to be governed by the following Constitution and By-Laws.

ART. 1ST.—The name of this organization shall be the Centre County "Local Option Association," whose object shall be the prompt and impartial inforcement of the laws of the state of Pennsylvania, relative to the illegal sale of intoxicating Liquors.

ART 2ND.—All persons of good moral character shall be eligible to membership by signing this constitution.

ART 3RD.—The officers shall consist of a President, Vice President, Secretary and Treasurer, who shall be elected annually, whose duties shall be the same as are usually in other organized bodies.

ART 4TH.—The President shall in conjunction with the Vice President and Treasurer, appoint a Central Executive Committee a majority of whom shall reside at or near the County Seat, whose duties shall be the usual duties of similar committee. Also a committee of not less than three in each twp., Ward or Borough to be called the "Township Enforcement Committee," whose duty shall be to see that the laws relative to the sale of intoxicating liquors are promptly vigorously and impartially enforced in their respective Twp's., Wards or Boroughs, that offenders without respect to persons, be returned to the Court of Quarter Sessions for punishment, and the necessary evidence for their conviction furnished to the District Attorney. They shall correspond with, and when necessary aid in the aid of the Central Executive Committee.

ART 5TH.—The President, Vice President and Treasurer, shall have power to retain three or more Attorneys, to assist the commonwealth in the prosecution of all persons indicted for the illegal sale of intoxicating liquors.

ART 6TH.—Alterations may be made to this Constitution at any regular stated meeting by a two thirds vote of those present.

BY-LAWS.

ART. 1ST—The first regular meeting of this Association shall be held on the evening of the 4th Monday of August in each and every year; but the President may, on the written request of any ten members, call a special meeting at such time and place as may be deemed advisable.

ART. 2d—The Secretary shall prepare a subscription list for a fund to be used when necessary, for the enforcement of the laws against the sale of liquor, to be paid as needed; provided, that not more than 25 per cent. of the whole amount shall be assessed in any one year.

ART. 3D—The Secretary shall pay all monies to the Treasurer and take his receipt for the same.

ART. 4TH—The Treasurer shall disburse the funds in his hands only on orders drawn by the Central Executive Committee, approved by the President, and shall make a report of his receipts and disbursements at each annual meeting of this association.

Adjourned to meet at 7 o'clock in the evening.

The Convention met according to adjournment. Prayer by Rev. W. O. Wright.

A committee was appointed to determine what township was entitled to the banner for polling the largest vote in favor of the Local Option Law. They reported that old Union twp., was entitled to the banner, for having polled a unanimous vote against license.

On motion, a committee of five was appointed to present the banner, consisting of Revs. J. Zeigler, M. L. Smyser and Wm. Meminger, and C. L. Greeno and W. H. Blair.

On mtoion, Rev. C. L. Crome was called upon, who delivered a very pointed and interesting address.

The Convention then proceeded to organize and elect permanent officers, when, on motion, C. L. Greeno was elected President, Rev. M. L. Smyser, Vice President, Wm. H. Blair, Secretary, and James S. Sommerville, Treasurer, after which Rev. W. T. Wylie addressed the Convention at length, showing the propriety of the platform adopted, and the devastating effects of intoxicating drinks.

On motion, it was resolved, That branches of the "Open Temperance Union" be organized in every township in the county, auxiliary to the Milesburg and Boggs township organization.

On motion, it was resolved, That the replies of the different candidates be transcribed for publication, and the original handed back to the Open Temperance Union.

On motion the Convention adjourned.

MAGAZINES.

A WONDERFUL INVENTION RECENTLY PATENED.—An elegant little instrument which combines twelve practically useful tools. viz: Pocket Rule, Ruler, Square, Bevel, Screw Driver, Chisel Compass, Scissors, Button Hole Cutter, Paper Knife, Eraser, and Pencil Sharpener, The article is made of steel and evidently durable. Agents are wanted in every town. The proprietors offer to send steel polished post paid by mail for fifty cents. Silver plated, one dollar. Gold plated, two dollars. Persons desireing an agency or to obtain the tools should apply at once. The proper address is Combination Tool Co., 124 Nassau Street, New York. Also, the new Revolver Lightning Trap, which winds up like a clock. Kills Rats, Gophers, Squirrels, Mice, &c. and throws them away and sets itself as the name indicates. One trap sent by express for one dollar.

"OLD AND NEW" for October is a very live number, consisting either of striking fiction or interesting fact. The fiction includes the conuation of Mr. Burnand's autobiograph novel; the continuation of Mr. Perkin's novel, with a melancholy death scene in it, and a curious analysis of a good old-fashioned sermon by the Rev. Dr. Toomston. There is a short story entitled, "Is Seeing Believing?" and still another, that is, the first half of it,—by Mr. Hale, being a narrative of Swiss travel experience, evidently fresh from the other side. Among the other articles which deal with facts, is "The Springfield Regetta," the only authentic, deliberate and clear account of the failure there, and its reasons, which has been printed. Mrs Howland has a useful and pleasent paper on making a delightful little conservatory as part of one's parlor. There is an intelligent and instructive analysis of the causes of socialism in Europe another of Miss Hinckley's graceful and spirited natural hitsory sketches; a fanciful sketch of the character and domestic troubles of old Mr, Zebedee, "the Father of Zebedee's Children," by G. Haven Putnam, and Miss Susan Hale's (is it not) lively account of her visit to the great English race, "the Derby."

BUSINESS NOTICES.

CHOCOLATE CREAM CAKE.—To the yolk of four eggs, well beaten, add two cups white sugar one cup butter, one cup sweet milk, three cups flour, having in it one measure Banner Baking Powder, then add the whites of four eggs, well beaten; bake in jelly cake pans.

FOR THE CREAM.—To four ounces of plain chocolate grated add one cup white sugar, two table-spoonfuls corn starch, one cup sweet milk one table-spoonful extract of vanilla; mix well together, and boil until it thickens, stirring constantly. When cold spread it on the layers of the cake.

Each can of the Banner Baking Powder contains a small measure, to be used even full, according to printed directions. If you cannot obtain this really valuable article from your grocer, send twenty-five cents by mail, addressed to Banner Baking Powder, P. O. Lock Box 317, Pittsburgh, Pa., and you will receive postage paid, a quarter pound package, together with a list of fifty valuable Recipes.

OUR MOTHERS,

who were the best and tidiest housewives in the world—excepting our grandmothers!—took especial pride in the possession of rows of tinware that glistened like a polished mirror. Every article about their house susceptible of polish, including the brass knocker, was regularly brightened up until it fairly glistened. With their primitive materials, such as Bath brick, emery, rotten stone, etc., it was a serious labor, albeit one of love. Now-a-days, however, their daughters use Sapollo, and in one hour can polish more articles and do it better than they could in a whole day. If you wish to excel your mothers in the brightness of your kitchen ware, use Sapollo.

If you cannot obtain this really valuable article from your grocer, send twenty-five cents by mail, addressed to Banner Baking Powder, P. O. Lock Box., 317, Pittsburgh, Pa., and you will receive, postage paid, a quarter pound package, together with a list of fifty valuable Recipes.

TO THE CITIZENS OF PENNSYLVANIA.—Your attention is specially invited to the fact that the National Banks are now prepared to receive subscription to the Capital Stock of the Centenaial Board of Finance. The funds realized from this source are to be employedin the erection of the buildings for the International Exhibition, and the expenses connected with the same. It is confidently believed that the Keystone State will be represented by the name of every citizen alive to patriotic commemoration of the one hundred birth-day of the nation. The shares of stock are offered for $10 each, and subscribers will recieve a handsomely steel engraved Certificate of Stock, suitable for framing and preservation as a national memorial.

Interest at the rate of six per cent per annum will be paid on all payments of Centenial Stock from date of payment to January 1, 1876.

Subscribers who are not near a National Bank can remit a check or post-office order to the undersigned.

Centaur Liniment.

There is no pain which the Centaur Liniment will not relieve, no swelling it will not subdue and no lameness which it will not cure. This is strong language, but it is true. Where the parts are not gone, its effects are marvelous. It has produced more cures of rheumatism, neuralgia, lock-jaw, palsy, sprains, swellings caked-breasts, scalds, burns, salt-rheum, earache, &c., upon the human frame, and of strains spavin, galls, &c., upon animals in one year than have all other pretended remedies since the world began. It is a counter-irritant, an all-healing pain reliever. Cripples throw away their crutches, the lame walk, poisonous bites are endered harmless, and the wounded are healed without a scar. It is no humbug. The recipe is published around each bottle. It is selling as no article ever before sold, and it sells because it does just what it pretends to do. Those who now suffer from rheumatism, pain or swelling, deserve to suffer if they will not use Centaur Liniment. More than 1000 certificates of remarkable cures, including frozen limbs, chronic rheumatism, gout, running tumors, &c., have been received. We will send a circular containing certificates, the recipe, &c., gratis, to any one requesting it. One bottle of the yellow wrapper Centaur Liniment is worth one hundred dollars for spavined or sweenied horses and mules, or for screw-worm in sheep. Stock-owners—this liniment is worth your attention. No family should be without Centaur Liniment. Price, 50c.a bottle, large bottles $1. 00. J. B. ROSS & Co.,
53 Broadway, New York.

CASTORIA is more than a substitute for Castor Oil. It is the only safe article in existence which is certain to assimilate the food, regulate the bowels, cure wind-colic and produce natural sleep. It contains neither minerals, morphine or alcohol, and is pleasant to take. Children need not cry and mothers may rest.

BELLEFONTE REPUBLICAN

BELLEFONTE, PA.

Another Democratic Slander—The False Figures of Orvis Exposed—No Defalcation, as Alleged, in the State Treasury.

The allegation of Gen. Jackson that "figures will not lie," has been proven to be itself a lie, for figures will lie when liars handle them, and put them in the wrong place or manufacture them to order.

An instance of this is afforded by Mr. J. H, Orvis, Democratic member of the Legislature last year from this county, and is now a candidate for re-election. It is alleged by the Commissioners' organ (Brown's Republican,) that no inconsiderable portion of the Republicans of the county are going to support Orvis this fall. We will not believe it, we cannot believe that any true Republican can conscientiously support a man who will so basely misrepresent them.

In a speech in the legislature last winter he presented the following array of false figures to show there is a defalcation in the State Treasury of $2,437,755.

Orvis is a man who has a very high opinion of himself, and with a serene confidence of his ability to hoodwink and deceive the people. He trumped up his false figures before the Legislature, last winter, but was promptly rebuked for his wantonness and mendacity. He refused, when asked to go to the books in the State Treasury and Auditor General's Office for his figures; but preferred to cook his statistics in his own way, with no authority but his own to back them.

Although the Watchman has had nothing to say upon this subject, yet other Democratic papers have circulated the false figures and deductions, as evidence that there is something wrong at Harrisburg; we therefore invite the attention of the voters of Centre County to a few genuine figures, drawn from official sources, and entitled to the fullest credence.

The following is the charge of defalcation as presented by Orvis:

STATEMENT MADE BY JOHN H. ORVIS, SESSION 1873.

Public debt, Dec. 1, 1866	$35,622,052 16
Add amount of new loan	23,000,000 00
Chambersburg certificates, act May 27, 1871	297,377 65
Agricultural College bond, act April 3, 1872	500,000 00
Total authorized debt,	$59,419,429 81
Per Contra.
Loans redeemed from Sinking Fund	$10,992,662 54
Old loans redeemed with new loan	23,000,000 00
Interest received on new loan	267,255 29
Premium received on new loan	86 002 83
Discrepency in Sinking Fund account	207,770 12
	$34,553,690 78
	$24,865,739 03
Actual debt	27,303,494 64
Actual defalcation, as stated by Orvis	$2,437,755 61

The first part of this statement, showing the amount of the authorized issue of State bonds, is correct in all but one item, that of Chambersburg certificates, which amounts to $299,748 91, or $2,371-26 more than Orvis states.

But the very first item in his "per contra" is an error or a falsification. The items he gives for his total of $10,992,662 54, "Loans redeemed from Sinking Fund," are as follows:

Am't paid in 1867	$1,794,644 50
Am't paid in 1868	2,414,816 64
Am't paid in 1869	472,406 18
Am't paid in 1870	1,702,879 05
Am't paid in 1871	2,131,590 17
Am't paid in 1872	2,476,326 00
Total	$10,992,662 54

Now, on turning to the anual reports of the Auditor General, we find that the annual payments were as follows:

1867	$23,917,602 39
1868	4,417,463 64
1869	472,406 18
1870	1,702,879 05
1871	2,131,590 17
1872	2,476,326 00
Total	$32,118,307 43

A total of redemption, in those years of $32,118,307 43, instead of $34,553,690 78, as stated by Mr. Orvis. And this is how he cooks his figures. He takes the fact that the State in 1867 authorized the issue of a new loan of $23,000,000, to redeem the outstanding loans then due, or supposed to be due, and then coolly proceeds to assume that this sum of $32,000,000, with the accrued interest and premium on the same, was all immediately paid out in redemption of outstanding bonds—an assumption which has not a single fact to warrant it.

The proceeds of the new loan of 1867 with premium and interest, were all paid into the State Treasury, as fast as the bonds were sold, but the old and overdue bonds were not all presented in that year, and it was also afterwards found that a part of the bonds estimated to be due in 1867 were not really due until a considerable time afterwards. The consequence was that the larger portion of the overdue bonds were paid in 1867 and the remainder in subsequent years, these payments being classed together with the bonds bought by the Sinking Fund, in the Auditor General's reports for those years.

Mr. Orvis, therefore, has no authority but his imagination for stating the payments from the Sinking Fund in 1867 and '68 as he has done, and none whatever—not even that of imagination—for assuming that the proceeds of the $23,000,000 loan were applied in a lump to the redemption of that much debt. Those proceeds went into the State Treasury and were paid out, with other funds, as indicated by the Auditor General's report for 1867 and '68, and Mr. Orvis had no authority for any other figures than those officially furnished in those reports.

The figures of the official documents, however, will not justify any charge of defalcation; and therefore it behooved Mr. Orvis to get up his own figures, in order to make out his case. Every one familiar with such things knows that maturing bonds are never presented promptly for payment, and that the State Treasurer, in 1867, could do nothing else but put the proceeds of the new loan in the Treasury and wait until the old loans were presented for payment. Instead of the false statement of Mr. Orvis, as we have quoted, the correct statement would be as follows:

Public debt December 1, 1866	$35,622,052 16
Loan au horized by act of February 2, 1867	23,000,000 00
Loan authorized by act of May 27, 1871	299,748 91
Loan authorized by act of April 3, 1872	500,000 00
Total authorized debt	$59,421,801 07
Am't paid in 1867	$1,794,644 50
Am't paid in 1868	2,414,816 64
Am't paid in 1869	472,406 18
Am't paid in 1870	1,702,879 05
Am't paid in 1871	2,131,590 17
Am't paid in 1872	2,476,326 00
	$10,992,662 54
To which add the amount redeemed by the State Treasurer in the years of 1867 and 1868, omitted by Mr. John H. Orvis—Omitted in year 1867	$19,122,997 89
Omitted in year 1868	$2,002,646 00
	$21,125,643 89
	$32,118,306 43
Public debt Dec. 1, 1872, as per report rendered	$27,303,494 64

Before which properly corrected statement Mr. Orvis's defalcation vanished to nothing.

The premium and interest on loans went into the Treasury of the State, and not into the Sinking Fund, and have been properly accounted for by the State Treasurer, in the regular receipts and expenditures of the State; and as to Mr. Orvis's "discrepency" of $207,770 12, as he has presented no proof to show that there is any such discrepency we must be excused for regarding it as a misstatement. To sum up:

Mr. Orvis says in his statement that the amount of loans redeemed is	$33,992,032 54
While the correct amount as shown by our statement and by the annual report is	32,118,306 43
Difference in loans redeemed	$1,874,356 11
To this add the amount of premiums and interest on loans	353,258 12
Discrepency as made up by Orvis	207,770 12
	$2,435,384 35
Loan act of May 27,1871	$299,748 91
Mr. Orvis states this loan as	297,377 65
Mr. Orvis's error	$2,371 26—2,371 26
Actual defalcation as claimed by him	$2,437,755 61
Orvis's error in loans redeemed	$1,874,356 11
Receipts on premiums and interest, which should not be included	353,258 12
Discrepency or mis-statement	207,770 12
Orvis's error in loan of May 27, 1871	2,371 26—2,437,755 61
Amount of Defalcation	$0,000,000 00

Mr. Orvis also alleges there is a deficiency in the interest account of the State of $550,408 39; but as the interest on the State debt is paid, not by the State Treasurer, but by the Farmers' and Mechanics' Bank of Philadelphia, which corporation is made, by law, the financial agency of the State, we refer Mr. Orvis and his Democratic friends to the Democratic officers of that Democratic corporation for the settlement of that difficulty, if there is any existing, which we do not believe.

We append an official statement of the loans of the State, and their redemption, since 1864, as taken from the books in the office of the Auditor General:

We have thus presented authentic figures in opposition to Mr. Orvis's imaginary ones; and the figures we present show that there is not the shadow of proof to sustain the charge of defalcation. Any one can verify our figures by referring to the published annual reports of the State officers; and no one can verify the figures of Mr. Orvis. We are justified, then, in treated them as fabrications, and leave the whole case in the hands of the honest thinking people of Centre county who are sure in the coming election to judge fairly and honerably and no honest Republican or any honest man of any party after knowing these facts can support for re-election a man who who will "with malace afore thought" so distort figures as to bring disgrace upon faithful men who have always been considered pure, honest, incorruptable. If it is true as is alleged by the Commissioners, organ that there are Republicans who contemplate voting for Orvis this fall we say to you, gentlemen, think of this matter and then decide, if you can, to vote for a man who will so vilely misrepresent us and the glorious Republican party which we all love and honor.

SAPOLIO

is a substitute for Soap for all Household purposes, except washing clothes.

SAPOLIO

for Cleaning your House will save the labor of one cleaner. Give it a trial.

SAPOLIO

for Windows is better than Whiting or Water. No removing curtains or carpets cleans Paint and Wood, in fact the whole house, better than Soap. No slopping.—Saves labor. You can't afford to be without it.

SAPOLIO

SAPOLIO

for Scouring Knives is better and cleaner than Bath Brick. Will not scratch.

SAPOLIO

is better than Soap and Sand for polishing Tinware. Brightens without scratching.

SAPOLIO

Polishes Brass and Copper utensils better than Acid or Oil and Rotten Stone.

SAPOLIO

for Washing Dishes and Glassware is invaluable. Cheaper than Soap.

SAPOLIO

removes Stanes from Marble Mantels, Tables and Statuary, from Hard-finished Walls, and from China and Porcelain.

SAPOLIO

removes Stains and Grease from Carpets or other woven fabrics.

There is no one article known that will do so many kinds of work and do it as well as Sapolio. Try it.

HAND SAPOLIO

a new and wonderfully effective Toilet Soap, having no equal in this country or abroad.

HAND SAPOLIO

as an article for the Bath, "reaches the foundation" of all dirt, opens the pores and gives a healthy action and brilliant tint to the skin.

HAND SAPOLIO

Cleanses and Beautifies the Skin, instantly removing any stain or blemish from both hands and face.

HAND SAPOLIO

is without a rival in the world for curing or preventing roughness and chapping of either hands or face.

HAND SAPOLIO

removes Tar, Pitch, Iron or Ink Stains and Grease; for workers in Machine Shops, Mines, &c., is invaluable. For making the Skin White and soft, and giving to it a "bloom of beauty," it is unsurpassed by any Cosmetic known.

HAND SAPOLIO

costs 10 to 15 cents per cake, and everybody should have it. You will like it.

Agricultural.

☞ NOTE.—We earnestly desire that this Department of our paper shall be made as useful as possible to our Agricultural friends, and therefore extend a cordial invitation to all parties interested, to favor us with contributions. Individuals who have made useful experiments and yet do not feel competent to write them out in form for publication, if they will favor us with the results we will take pleasure in putting them in proper shape.

DURABILITY OF GREEN TIMBER.—Oak under water has been known to remain sound and solid for six hundred years. Mere moisture in the wood alone, then, has nothing to do with decay; but when wood is half dry and half moist it is an excellent nest for the spores of moulds and mildews to hatch, and in it is these which carry on the work of wood destruction. Under ground, where the temperature is always low and regularly damp, these moulds cannot work; and the wetter and colder the soil the safer is the wood from the destructive agencies.

Now, if we half dry a post we open little seams in every direction, and the air always follows a seam. In the atmosphere these germs of decay exist in countless numbers, and they are admitted into the wood with the air. When moisture again follows they are in the best possible condition for growth and of course the rot is a consequence. If the posts be placed in the ground before the opening process of drying is commenced, all this risk of admitting the "seeds of consumption," so to speak, is avoided.

FEATURES OF A GOOD OX.—A good ox should have a long, lean face, and bright hazel eyes, which show capability to receive instruction and disposition to obey it. Large nostrils denote the capability of the ox to work on a hot day. Very large horns at the base denote laziness. Full breast, straight back, wide ribs—by which is meant the ribs that round out nearly as wide as the rib bones—and wide gambrel, are evidence of strength. Straight knees, broad toes, pointed straight forward, show an ox can travel on hard road or pavement.

STUMBLING.—When a horse stumbles never raise your voice—the creature dreads its master's chiding; never jog the rains—the mouth of the horse is far more sensitive than the human lips; never use the lash, the horse is so timid that the slightest correction overpowers its reasoning faculties. Speak to the creature; reassure the palpitating frame; seek to restore those perceptions which will form the best guard against any repetition of the faulty action.

The Habit of Reading.

"I have no time to read," is the common complaint, and especially among women, whose occupations are such as to prevent continuous book perusal. They seem to think, because they cannot devote as much attention to books as they are compelled to devote to their avocations, they cannot read anything. But this is a great mistake. It is not the books that we finish at a sitting which always does us the most good. Those we devour in the odd moment, half a dozen pages at a time, often give us more satisfaction, and are more thoroughly digested than those we make a particular effort to read. The men who have made their mark in the world have generally been the men who have in boyhood formed the habit of reading at every available moment, whether it be five minutes or five hours.

It is the habit of reading rather than time of our command that helps us on the road to learing. Many of the most cultivated persons, whose names have been famous as students, have given only two or three hours a day to their books. If we make use of the spare moments in the midst of our work, and read a little, if but a page or a paragaph, we shall find our brains quickened and our toil lightened by just so much increased satisfaction as the book gives us. Nothing helps along the monotonous daily round so much as fresh and striking thoughts, to be considered while our hands are busy. A new idea from a new book is like oil which reduces the friction of life. What we remember from brief glimpses into books often serves as a stimulus to action, and becomes one of the most precious deposits in the treasury of our recollection. All knowledge is made up of small parts, which would seem insignificant in themselves, but which, taken together, are very valuable weapons for the mind and substantial armor for the soul. "Read anything continously," says Dr. Johnson, "and you will be learned." The moments which you are inclined to waste, if carefully availed of for instruction, will, in the long run, make golden hours and golden days that we shall be ever thankful for.

Iron in the Blood

PERUVIAN SYRUP
AN IRON TONIC

MAKES THE WEAK STRONG.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an aliment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low state of the system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures, to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.

VINEGAR BITTERS

VEGETABLE — FREE FROM ALCOHOL — PURELY — DR. WALKER'S CALIFORNIA — EUREKA

VINEGAR BITTERS

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of VINEGAR BITTERS?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilious Diseases.

The properties of DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS are Aperient, Diaphoretic, Carminative, Nutritious, Laxative, Diuretic, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Alterative, and Anti-Bilious.

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic can take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ringworms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelminitics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

Bellefonte and County.

——James T. Hale, Esq., is speculating in the West.

——Joseph Waream can't be our next Senator.

"No, no, no, not for Joe!"

——And now D. F. Fortney delivers temperance speeches,—he made a good one at Milesburg, last week.

——The photographs of Wade the murderer, and others. may be seen at the office of the "Commissioners organ."

——Moran Hibler, a correct and talented young man, has been appointed assistant book-keeper in the First National Bank.

——From visions of Senatorial honors to squirrel hunting in Halfmoon twp., is the latest transition of P. Gray Meek.

——Curtin township wants a number of pedagogues to run schools over there this winter for which they will pay a salary of $50 a month.

——The venerable William Stitzer father of H. Y. Stitzer, Esq., of this place, died at the latter's residence on the 17th. He was about 63, years of age.

——A lecture will be given by Dr. J. W. Roger, in the Catholic Church, on Tuesday, September 30. Subject: Bismark and the Pope. Admission, fifty cents.

——One of the finest riding horses in the county, is a splendid black charger, the property of Gen. Wm. H. Blair, who occasionally finds recreation by taking a jaunt in the saddle.

——Orvis comes out flat-footed for temperance: he answered the interrogations of Blair's Convention, in the affirmative. The other candidates didn't interrogate worth a cent.

——James H. Rankin, Esq., and his son, J. I. Rankin, have formed a co-partnership in the insurance business and will shortly occupy the new rooms under the First National Bank building.

——Mr. Edward McGinley, son of our well known tax-collector, has removed to the far west and is now, in the capacity of contractor, building houses in the city of Lincoln Centre, Kansas.

——P. Gray Meek informs his personal and political friends, that if he had been nominated for the Senate, he would have pledged himself to vote for the repeal of the Local Option Law.

——Owing to the fact that Jay Cook & Co. and the Graphic balloon enterprise, have failed, we have lost much of our confidence in humanity—we are even afraid to pay our wash bill in advance.

——Upon our table we found on Friday morning a basket containing the choicest clusters of delicious grapes, placed there by the fair hand of Miss Mary Williams, who will please except our hearty thanks.

——Our County Frir promises to be the best ever held in the county. J. H. Orvis, President, and D. S. Keller, Secretary, of the Agricultural Society, are uniting in their efforts to make it a success. Let our farmers and artizans do their duty.

——Republicanism, with its glorious record is the same to-day, it was last year and for the last sixteen years.—Brown's Republican.

True, every word of it; but something got wrong with the writer of the above in '66 when Meek bought him with a suit of clothes to make Democratic speeches and he, the auther of the above, stumped the county with Gen. Wm. H. Blair.

——We desire to remind friends interested, of the notice we gave week before last, of the quarterly meeting of the Benner Sunday School Association at the Knox School House, in Benner twp, next Srturday, at 10 o'clock A. M. and 2 o'clock P. M. Also on the same day the school will hold a Pic-nic, to which all friends are invited.

——If the last year's lecture committee of Bellefonte would except the offers of all parties who "would be pleased to have a place in the course," this literary community would be favored with about fifteen hundred representatives of the best American and foreign talent and the committee would be about $20,00 out of pocket on the investment.

——In another column will be found a report of the proceedings of the temperance convention held at Milesburg on last Friday. From the report it will be seen that the convention was nothing less than a good old-fashioned temperance meeting. Good men from both political parties were present and seemed determined to enforce the temperance laws at all hazards.

We stated last week that it was the opinion of many of our temperance men that an attempt would be made to pervert the influence of the convention, so as to give strength to the democratic candidate for the Legislature. There was no such an attempt made. A scheme may have been set on foot, and we believe there was, to throw the vote of the temperance people in favor of John H. Orvis; but nothing of the kind was done. L. A. Miller's letter to the convention, which will be found in another column, is manly and to the point: it shows that as a republican he will, if elected, be controlled by the desires of his constituency but that no one individual in the democratic party is going to assume the function of his father confessor without some previous arrangement. We cannot but admire General Blair's conduct in the convention. His whole care seemed to be to advance the cause of temperance without allying it with any political party. That he is an earnest temperance man now, cannot be doubted. He might have had some scheme to advance the cause of temperance, which would have strengthened Orvis, but it was from no feeling of hatred or ill-will that he bore to L. A. Miller, or the party he represented. It was only for the amelioration of poor, fallen, drunken humanity. In proof of this, we adduce the fact that he offered a resolution pledging the convention to the support of John Irwin, Jr., our candidate for state Senator.

This action will not prehaps give him his proper standing in the democratic party, but it shows that, to his own mind, the temperance question is one of paramount importance in political affairs, and that he has the confidence and respect of the temperance community is shown in the fact that he was elected to the position of Secretary of the county temperance Society. We now believe that if every man stands to his gun, the election of Levi A. Miller is assured.

——Mr. J. M. Duncan, who for nearly two years has been a student at the Academy, has been suffering from a severe mental derangement for some time past. The cause of his malady is attributed to the fact that he has been trying to do, and has succeeded in doing two years work in one year. Rev. J. P. Hughes informed us that during the last year Mr. Duncan has accomplished more mental work than many of his students did in two; that his love of study is remarkable and that he has frequently studied all night until five o'clock in the morning. Mr. Hughes of course was not aware of it at the time or he would have prevented this overwork. Mr Duncan is gradually recovering and hopes are entertained that his abberation will soon pass away.

——Elsewhere in this paper will be found a full, complete and conclusive refutation of the statements made by J. H. Orvis, Esq., in a speech on the State finances in the Legislature, last spring. The facts foot up an entirely different result from that obtained by the mathematical elocutionist.

As the Watchman has never said a word in defence of this speech, the astute editor tacitly consents to the universal verdict that it is a delusion and a snare for political effect and personal notoriety. Let every democrat in the county and state bear in mind that the organ of the Democracy in this, Orvis' own county, acknowledges that there is no foundation for the representations made by J. H. Orvis in the speech alluded to.

——There is some "Leather Head" of a Post Master in this county that has been sending back a paper to this office with the name of James Alexander marked on the margin but nothing else to indicate where it comes from. Now we have no less than six James Alexanders on our list, how are we to know which one of these is meant.? Why does not this wise servant of Ulysses comply with the law and send us a proper notice? This he must do, stating the reason why the paper is stopped. We are not oblidged to stop a paper until all arreages are payed up, and we do not do it unless it is going to some man with soul just small enough and mean enough to steal his reading by cheating the printer.

——The Sunday School Convention held last week at the March Creek church, like all similar meetings of the Centre county S. S. Association, was highly successful in accomplishing the object designed. The scholars acquitted themselves creditable at their session in the afternoon by repeating from memory the ten commandments, the twenty third Psalm, and other scripture recitations; Will the secretary furnish us with a fuller report?

——Will the board of Bellefonte School directors please place a good bell on the public school building?

——The workmen at the Car works are now regulated in their labors by a mammoth bell.

——Rev. R. Crittenden, the faithful and energetic S. S. missionary of this county has traveled in the last five months 1734 miles, and delivered 54 addresses.

——Mr. Harry C. Valentine, formerly a member of the Bellefonte Iron company, has gone to Williamsport for the purpose of engaging more extensively in the iron business. Mr. V. is every inch a business man and a gentleman of the highest type, and all who know him are sorry to see him leave the home of his nativity.

——The Commissioners' Organ, it would seem, is not satisfied with the county patronage, but desires to get a little borough advertising done, and calls for the auditors' report and says that "the tax-payers are willing to pay for the publication." Don't be so fast, Billy, the borough officers are not so liberal as the commissioners, besides not owning a printing office, they have no place where they can put the money so that it "will do the most good" i. e. to themselves.

——Ex. Sheriff Woodring and Cyrus Strickland have purchased the entire stock of groceries, &c., of David Ruhl, and intend to carry on the grocery business at the old stand on Allegheny street. These gentlemen are old citizens in Bellefonte, have served their country in fighting its battles, in short they are scar worn veterans, who deserve the patronage of the community. Give them a call.

——Joseph Waream, will not receive much support from the democracy in this County. The Watchman feels sore and disappointed at its own defeat on the 376th ballot of the conferees and wont put much vigor into the campaign. Fred Kurtz is too honorable to work for this stranger, the quibbling, brief writing, obscure justice of the Peace, as against such a well fitted man as John Irwin Jr., and if the republican party will do its duty in the other counties of the district, Irwin's election will be beyond a doubt.

——George W. Foote, editor of the Berichter has been a republican all his life and is a republican now, but because it is his interest to make the Berichter pay, he tries to write democratic editorials and keep on the democratic side. He has evidently set his foot on the jewel, consistency, in writing the following:

> The nomination of Mr. Joseph S. Waream, of Lewistown, for Senator, completes the ticket. Now, let every Democrat do his duty and the entire ticket can be elected by a handsome majority. The ticket is a good one throughout and and should receive the support of every honest and fair-minded man.

——John Potter, the District attorney, prepared a list of the criminal cases presented at the last quarter Sessions, which was given to the Watchman for publication. Why didn't he complete his report by stating how much money he made in the way of fees, and if they were all legitimate fees? Could he or the commissioners tell how much the latter paid for the publication of this document? Why did he not give the names of the parties interested in the different bills or did he think it would have an injurious effect politically? Lastly, why didn't the commissioners give the the publication of this document to their own "organ"?

——The "Watchman" doublets, bless the little pair, are very much in pain, lest we should write something that don't suit them. The little fellows wrote quite a little story about our taking something from the Danbury News about Peter's wife. They thought we didn't write it but stole it from the above paper. To satisfy the lilipuitian pair that we did really and truly biographise Peter in our own quiet way we wrote a letter enclosing the biography, to the Danbury News man, asking him if his genius ever suggested or gave birth to statements therein made. On last evening much to our gratification we received the following reply:—

> Dear Sir:—Yours with inclosure received. In reply would say that I, like yourself, am not in the biography line. I never wrote the article you refer to, and never saw it before; but the man who did write it will no doubt receive an extra pressure of the hand when he makes Peter's acquaintance.
> Yours &c.,

——For some time we have heard ridiculous rumors in regard to the disease which has been prevailing here. In some localities it is reported that there have been as high as forty deaths in one day. People fear to come to Millheim even to attend the funerals of their friends, and some who are compelled to come to town hold their handkerchiefs to their faces until through the town. This is nonsense. Our physicians assure us that the disease is not contagious and thus far it has not proven fatal in one case between the ages of 8 and 69 years. In town there have been since the 4th of August 16 deaths, fifteen of which were from dysentery. Of the fifteen 8 were less than 2 years old, 3 were less than 4 years old, one was 7 years and 26 days, and the remaining three were aged respectively 69, 74 and 76 years. At present there are no serious cases and very few cases of dysentery at all, nearly all having recovered. Berichter.

——In another column will be found an advertisement for the sale of a very valuable hotel property located at the foot of the Pennsvalley Narrows in Union county, three miles from Laaurel Run Station on the L. C. & S. C. R. R., and owned by E. Motz, Esq., of Woodward, P. O., this county. This property contains 55 acres of meadow and farm land. Near the elegant hotel building is a splendid grove of forest trees, extending back to the mountain and compassing a lovely romantic mountain glen, with a clear running stream of cool sparkling water. The hotel is large and roomy, and possessed of fine substantial stable and other out buildings. The hotel stand is well established and has a good run of custom. Mr. Motz bought this property in connection with a valuable tract of timber land, upon which has been discovered a large vein of soft, hemitite iron ore. He don't want to bother with the hotel and therefore is desirous of disposing of it. The hotel is admirably situated for a summer resort. On it and in its vicinity are beautiful drives, superb mountain and valley views and fine trout brooks. The famous Narrows, the entrance to the highway across the Seven-mountains, affords fine opportunities for the hunter while farther back in the mountain are plenty of deer. This is indeed a rare opportunity for a good investment.

——The other day we happened to visit that foundry 'round the corner belonging to Col. George A. Bayard, the present candidate for county treasurer. We found the Colonel with his coat off and sleeves rolled up, busy with his castings. Everything in and around the foundry looked neat and thrifty. The Colonel showed us through the different apartments, all of which betokened the thrift and energy of the proprietor. Here Colonel Bayard has labored year after year, and by his energy, correct business qualities and undoubted integrity, has gained for himself and family a competence. When men, whose lives have been a record of honest toil and faithfulness to friends and country, as Colonel Bayard's has been, are placed before the people for election to offices of trust and responsibility, they should be supported by all who desire that true, sterling worth should not go unrewarded.

Poultry.—Having been appointed to solicit poultry breeders to exhibit their stock at the ensuing Agricultural Fair of Centre Co. I would say, that it is very desirable that all those who intend to exhibit, should notify me before the week of the Fair, so that I may be enabled to make provision to have shedding prepared to accommodate the same. Exhibitors will provide their own coops and water fountains. Coops made of three feet plastering lath, three feet each way and two and one half inches space between slats, with a slide opening for cleansing, are a very good size for three fowls. Premium lists will be furnished on application.

——R. B. Caldwell, the Renova banker, has received the nomination for the Legislature in his district. Mr. Caldwell will have some Democratic votes to overcome in order to be elected, but if he should be so fortunate, that constituency will find him to be an honest man, who is possessed of one of the keenest and shrewdest business minds in that section. He is well and very favorably known in this county, and we have no doubt that his unblemished character, high social qualities, together with his energy and integrity will give him many votes that no other Republican candidate could control. Success to you, Bob. Caldwell!

Jay Cook & Co.—A young married man with his wife and little child drove into town on last Saturday afternoon for the purpose of doing some shopping. At one of the stores the salesman informed them of the great and sudden crash of Jay Cook and other bankers, remarking that it was hard to tell what banks were safe now-a-days. This scared the male member of the family who had $17.50 deposited at one of the banks. He excused himself and immediately made a run on the bank, his surprise was so great, on receiving the full amount of his balance, that he stopped to tell a friend on the street of his good fortune in getting out of the great financial crisis without losing a cent. His friend gratified to hear of his escape, suggested that it would be quite appropriate for them to take something. Half an hour afterwards he returned to his wife and child, in most excellent good humor and after informing them of the great danger he had passed through by the failure of so many banking houses, and how admirably he had managed his account so as not to lose a cent, he immediatily bought a pound and a half of candy for the baby and a pair of jet ear rings for his wife. This pleased them both so much that he thought he would go across the street and buy a baby carriage for the child, remarking that when a man was shrewd enough to keep out of the hands of such men as Jay Cook, he could afford to buy some little luxuries for home, sweet home. He soon returned with several more drinks in his stomach and the baby carriage under his arm. His wife, noticing that Jay Cook was getting the better of him, made all haste to get started home, but the fond parent was anxious to impress his financial forsight upon his hearers and, in a short time, had a crowd around him, listening to his views on Northern Pacific and Philadelphia sixes. His wife however, got him started toward the depot, and while she with the child in her arms and he with the baby carriage on his shoulder, passed the corner of High and Allegheny streets, any bystander might have heard him sing an inpromptu voluntary that ran something like

> Davie Crocket, 'fore he leaped, always looked > Keep your eyes on your green-backs or your > goose might be Cook-ed.

Finding that his legs needed some attention, if he wanted to keep on walking, he struggled manfully to give them direction and motive power, and with the assistance of his wife got along quite swimmingly until he caromed on a hitching post near the Arcade. Here a crowd of women and children gathered about the happy family who now turned up Water Street, the crowd followed, passers by stopped to see the commotion, a flock of frightened geese flew over the throng, all was breathless excitement! The father stumbled, fell over the baby carriage, smashed it, and in a moment was sound asleep, while the discouraged wife with a few anathemas on Jay Cook's head, hurled at random, left for home.

——The Watchman is one of those institutions that can not bear to see anything, insitution or person prosper. No town in the state is so much abused by its own home paper as Bellefonte is by the Watchman. No municipal officer or enterprise fails to get an underhanded thrust from that sheet. The Watchman never sees a good quality and never fails to see a bad one. The Watchmen is a kind of human owl, vigilant in darkness and blind to light, "mousing for vermin," and never seeing nobler game. It has a chuckling way of indulging in flippant sneers, with a supercilious tongue and an impudent air, that presumes to laugh every thing to scorn. All the strictures placed by the Republican upon the "Watchman's" political course, are answered with the poorest and silliest of all attempts at arguments—personal abuse and unmanly assault on private individuals. In fact the "Watchman" has followed so long in the shadow of Brick Pomeroy and journalists of his ilk, that no person believes its statements, whether they be true or false. When the editor was a candidate for state Senator very article we published in which his ability and integrity, his honesty and fitness for that high office, were discussed the public was answered by him in the most unmanly and unsatisfactory manner. This is his tactics. Show us a man who is the subject of "Watchman" abuse and we will show you a man too honest and independent to do the bidding of the little editor. If he will only be kind enough to abuse our candidates in his usual way, it will do our ticket much good this fall; indeed we think it would be a good investment to pay him to pitch into our whole ticket.

——Col. Wm. P. Wilson finds relief from professional persuits in giving some attention to horticulture. The grounds in rear of his handsome residence are planted with many different varieties of fruit trees, and his grape arbors are at present, groaning under the weight of the largest and most luscious bunches of grapes we have ever seen. Our inner man has frequently attested the Colonel's success as a fruit grower ——The "Watchman" man now wants a balloon ascension. If he'd keep his mouth shut for twenty-four hours he'd either go up or bust.

——Last Monday, the Jewish New-Year, was celebrated by our Jewish fellow-citizens. It was the first day of the year 5634 in Jewish cronology.

——And now the lawyer, the doctor, and ye dignified preachers have all turned sportsmen, and the squirrels harvest isn't one of peacefulness and plenty.

——It was not because they thought small game was too plenty, or that the chestnuts were too thick to ripen well or even from an avaricious love of wild meat, that seven pounds of harmless shot were sent into the tree tops of a neighoring forest on Monday last, by Hon's A. O. Furst and Geo. M. Yocum. It was only a way they have of seeking mental relief from business pursuits.

——The train that conveyed the bridal party away on last Wednesday evening, was forty minutes late, and stopped such a short time at the depot here, that some parties who were saying the goodbyes, were taken to Milesburg before they could get off. The train however made up its lost time so that the happy party were fortunate enough to make the connection with the P. & E. road at Lock Haven and thence to the White Sulpher Springs.

——Hon. J. F. Batcheller, president of the W. B. camp-meeting association, whose industry and zeal has added largely to the success of that institution, is stopping with his family at the Bush House. Mr. B. is the leading spirit in the Paper Mill company which fact is sufficient to insure the early completion and successful operation of this new enterprise.

——The Commissioner's Organ in an article under the head of "Be warned in time" says: "A few men in Bellefonte who claim to be republicans, talk quietly about scratching Levi A. Miller." We know that there is not a scintilla of truth in the above under handed thrust at our gallant candidate for Assembly. Mr. Miller will carry our full vote and the votes of many of the leading men of the democracy, such as P. Gray Meek and others. If there should be any dissatisfaction in our ranks, stuff like the above question, is not calculated to make things any better. If Brown is bound to have Sankey re-elected let him devote himself to that job and not seek to injure Mr. Miller who has always stood by him and even befriended him when all other friends failed.

——Yesterday we had the pleasure of meeting the venerable Jacob Ort, Bellefonte's centenarian. He informed us, that on the 24th day of last August he was one hundred years of age, that he was born in Switzerland where he lived until eleven years of age at which time he removed to this county. He has consequently lived in America for eighty-nine years. He has been a hard working man all his life and for many years followed the occupation of stone-mason and brick-layer. He has used tobacco, both chewing and smoking it, for over three quarters of a century, and almost every pleasant day he may be seen, with his pipe, strolling along the streets with no other support than a common walking cane. He bids fair to weather several years yet.

——Exhibitors at the coming Fair of the Agricultural Society, will consult their own convenience by making as many of their entries as possible prior to the opening day. The Secretary, Daniel S. Keller, has the books open at his Law office, Northwest corner of Brockerhoff House, just in rear of Centre county Bank, and entries may now be made at any time. 35-3t
